BELGIAN DEBT FUNDING IS PROPOSED

Commission Is Coming To United States For Aid In Negotiations

By H. K. REYNOLDS
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Negotiations for the funding of the $480,000,000 Belgian debt to the United States will get under way in Washington in July, it was announced at the state department today.

Official notification has been received from the government of Belgium that a debt commission headed by former Premier Theunis, will come to the United States within the next two months, the state department said.

Previous reports from Belgium had been to the effect that the debt negotiations here would not start until September.

Belgium is the first of the European nations, outside of Great Britain, which owes the United States more than $7,000,000,000 on account of war loans to take definite steps for the payment of the debt.

While the Belgian debt is small compared with the $4,000,000,000 owed by France and the $2,000,000,000 debt of Italy, government officials here look upon the opening of negotiations with Belgium as a definite break in the ranks of the debtor nations.

Belgium was one of the principal debtors upon which demand was made for settlement several weeks ago.

In view of the announcement today of the forthcoming Belgian negotiations it appears that this would be the next big debt taken up by the American debt commission as it is considered unlikely that either France or Italy will decide to open debt parleys here within the next two months.

Polar Explorers Met Bad Weather, Is Belief

LONDON, June 8.—Explorer Amundsen and his six men met perilous weather shortly after their take-off from Spitzbergen, May 21, for the north pole, it was generally believed in aviation circles here today.

This opinion was based on reports by fox trappers that on the day Amundsen left Spitzbergen a northeast wind brought drifted snow to the islands to the north, according to a dispatch from Oslo to The Morning Post. Amundsen left Spitzbergen under excellent local weather conditions and a bright sun.

Amundsen Is Praised for Polar Flight

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL, Minn., June 8.—President Coolidge, in his address before the Norse-American centennial celebration here today, paid glowing tribute to the daring of the blonde sons of Norway, singling out especially the intrepid Amundsen, now missing somewhere in the icy waters near the top of the world.

"They found the western ocean," he said, "and it was a Norseman who first traversed Bering strait and demonstrated there was no land connection between Asia and North America. Within a few years one of them first traversed the northwest passage from Atlantic to Pacific; and the same one, Amundsen, carried the flag of Norway to the South pole; and now, within a few days past, he has again been the first to make large explorations in the region of the North pole in an airplane, tempting a fate which, as I write, is unknown."

Commission Says Demands For Disarmament Are Not Carried Out

COOLIDGE PAYS TRIBUTE TO NORSEMEN

Calls Advancement Of Race Striking Example Of Peace And Unity

By GEORGE E. DURNO
For International News Service.

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL, Minn., June 8.—President Coolidge came into the great wheat belt of the northwest to join in the centennial celebration of the first organized movement of the Norwegian to the new world, pointed to the American melting-pot today as the true answer to the "riddle of Babel," and called upon the rest of the world to profit by the American example of assimilation and unity.

Massed before the president as he spoke were packed thousands of citizens but one generation removed from those daring Norsemen who just one hundred years ago sailed into New York harbor and blazed a trail into the vast region west of the Mississippi and north of the Missouri.

Tribute to Race

It was to them and to other more recently adopted sons from other sections of the old world—to their homely virtues and their staunch allegiance—that the president attributed the rise of the United States to the greatest of powers. In their hands he placed the future of the nation, and he pleaded that other peoples of the world follow them to a realization that only through fraternity and co-operation can come universal unity, peace and prosperity.

"Out of the confusion of tongues, the conflict of traditions, the variations of historical setting, the vast differences in talents and tastes," he said, "there has been evolved a spiritual union accompanied by a range of capacity and genius which marks this nation for a pre-eminent destiny.

On World Scale

"If fraternity and co-operation are possible on the scale of this continent among people so widely diverse, why not on a scale of a world? It is not a new thought, but it is a profoundly engaging one. I firmly believe it is more than a chimera. I feel it is possible of realization, I am convinced that our national story

PROPONENT OF EVOLUTION LIONIZED

John Thomas Scopes Visits New York To Confer Over Legal Defense

By DAVID SENTNER
For International News Service

NEW YORK, June 8.—John Thomas Scopes, Tennessee's youthful proponent of the theory of evolution, who is going to be tried on July 10 for teaching this theory in the public schools, found himself lionized in New York today. Offers of assistance in his trial are pouring in on him from many sources.

The young scientist is the focal point of interest for many distinguished scientists. Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborne, head of the Museum of Natural History, has singled out the youthful professor for a signal honor. "To John Thomas Scopes," will be the dedicatory preface to a collection of scientific articles shortly to be published by Dr. Osborne, it was announced today.

Holds Conferences

Today Scopes engaged in a series of conferences with his backers here over defense plans. He conferred with Forest Bailey, formerly of Los Angeles, now acting director of the civil liberties union, which has volunteered to provide Scopes with the ammunition for his defense. Also in the conference was George W. Rappelyea, former New York newsboy, now a chemical engineer of Dayton, who instigated his friend Scopes' arrest on a charge of violating the Tennessee law prohibiting the teaching of evolution in the public schools.

Scopes' activities for the day include luncheon with the executive committee of the American civil liberties union at the civic club, and, later in the afternoon, a conference in the office of Samuel J. Rosesohn of the firm of Pittsfield & Rosesohn, counsel for the union.

If at the trial anybody undertakes to explain the theory of evolution, it won't be Scopes," he said today.

"My defense will be mainly legal," he said. "If the evolution doctrine is explained by us it will not be by me."

Tomorrow will be the big day of conferences. Clarence Darrow, of Chicago, eminent attorney of the Loeb-Leopold case, will meet Scopes. Dudley Field Malone will also be in on the conferences tomorrow, it is expected. In the afternoon the conference will broaden to include a number of scientists and also members of the press.

The government test case was that of O. B. Fish of New York, who secured a decision allowing remission of additional duties charged. There are about 1400 such cases on appeal before the court of customs appeals. The government contended the court could not entertain such appeals.

DIVISION OVER FREE SPEECH DECISION

U. S. Supreme Court Split On Question In Ruling Upon Anarchy Law

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The question of freedom of speech and of the press developed a clear cut split in the ranks of the United States supreme court today.

Upholding the constitutionality of the New York criminal anarchy law, a majority of the court declared that free speech did not mean "unrestricted and unbridled license," while a minority, consisting of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes and Justice Louis Brandeis, held that no possible abridgment of the right of free speech was intended by the constitution.

"If, in the long run," said Justice Holmes, "the beliefs expressed in proletarian dictatorship are destined to be accepted by the dominant force of the community, the only meaning of free speech is that they should be given their chance and have their way."

San Quentin Killer Is Innocent, Says Lawyer

SACRAMENTO, June 8.—Attorneys for Floyd Hall, San Quentin killer and pal of Joe Tanko, today filed a demurrer to a complaint charging the captive bandit with the shooting of Patrolman Clyde Nunn, arguing that section 246 of the penal code, under which he is being prosecuted, does not apply.

Francis Murphy of San Francisco, chief counsel for the defense, declared that the death penalty cannot be exacted for the Nunn shooting as the attack upon the police officer did not occur while convicts were attempting to break prison. District Attorney J. J. Henderson is expected to complete his argument against granting of the demurrer late today or tomorrow morning.

Bring U. S. Marines From Philippines To Aid In Quelling Outbreak

SHANGHAI, June 8.—Charges that the Soviet government paid Chinese Communist leaders $5000 for the life of each student killed in the Shanghai riots were made today in circulars distributed all over the city by Chinese anti-Communists.

Chinese factions opposed to the Communists, while deploring the shooting which claimed the lives of a score of Chinese students and demanding apologies and indemnities, asserted that the Moscow government engineered the tragedy.

The circulars urged immediate overthrow of the Chinese Communists. Meanwhile it was reported 2,000 Chinese troops, including Russians and members of the Feng Tien army, were en route to Shanghai from Peking to cope with possible disorders.

Students at Kai Fun, capital of the province of Honan have declared a sympathetic strike to aid Chinese on general strike here against foreigners and the anti-foreign movement in Honand is growing in intensity with a serious situation impending, according to information reaching Shanghai today.

War Secretary Uses Failure Of Blimp to Hit Air Defense

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The navy dirigible Los Angeles will attempt another flight to Minneapolis as soon as repairs to the engines can be completed, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur announced late today.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—In discussing the failure of the dirigible Los Angeles to complete its flight to the middle west by engine trouble, Secretary Wilbur today took a direct slap at enthusiasts who have urged aircraft as the nation's first line of defense.

The experience of the Los Angeles in attempting a flight to the middle west and being forced to turn back because of engine trouble, shows the utter folly of the theory of depending for national defense upon the reliability of the gasoline engine, Wilbur said.

Wilbur declared he had ordered a full report from Captain Steele, commander of the Los Angeles, on the causes that led to the dirigible's return to Lakehurst, after it had traveled as far as Cleveland. Wilbur is anxious that the dirigible be deflated and overhauled preparatory to its flight to Hawaii this summer.

Returns to Station

LAKEHURST, N. J., June 8.—Forced by engine trouble to turn back to Cleveland while en route to St. Paul and Minneapolis, the United States navy's dirigible Los Angeles returned to the naval air station here early today. The Los Angeles arrived over the field at 2:10 o'clock, but up until 8:15 o'clock had been unable to land, due to a dense fog.

The dirigible left the air station at 2:28 o'clock Sunday morning, developed engine trouble at Cleveland yesterday afternoon and turned back. It was the first time that trouble of any sort has overtaken the giant airship whose first flight was the one from Germany to the United States.

The trip to the Norse-American celebration at St. Paul was the longest it had ever undertaken exclusively over United States soil

Old Time Western Days Gone! Pistols Barred in Gold Rush!

TELEGRAPH CREEK, B. C., June 8.—"Park your pistols here. No gun-toting allowed in British territory."

That's the sign that greeted stampeders on the way to the Cassiar country when they reached this jumping-off spot for the gold rush, and it is being enforced.

Gold Commissioner Dodd, with years of experience in the Yukon at the time of the '98 rush to guide him, is insisting on all small arms being left here, and has already collected an arsenal of sidearm artillery ranging from ladylike .22-calibre target pistols to businesslike Colt .45's.

Prospectors joining the rush are allowed to take rifles for game-shooting purposes, but the revolver and automatic pistol are barred.

"It will save a lot of grief. A man without a gun isn't near as quarrelsome in a touchy spot as he is if he is totin' a hip-iron," agreed the old sourdoughs, who are all for the new order, knowing the hair-trigger temper of stampeders where disputes over claims are concerned.

NEW COIN SLOT LOCAL INVENTION

Device Separates Slugs And Good Money As Guard of Sales' Machines

For twenty-five years manufacturers of automatic vending machines throughout the world have been searching for a coin slot that "couldn't be beaten," and for twenty-five years owners of vending machines have been paying out good merchandise for copper slugs, counterfeit coins and washers.

Today William C. Cutler, noted Glendale inventor who has established an experimental station at 507 East Broadway, found the solution. Into a crude model made with an arrangement of brass rules and coin "traps" he dropped a genuine dime. It came out the proper slot. He dropped a foreign coin that is the exact size and weight of a dime. It dropped out another slot. Varying the experiment with genuine dimes and every other kind of imitation used to "beat" vending machines, the arrangement separated the genuine from the counterfeit without a slip.

The new slot will be perfected, with five "traps" to detect the counterfeit coins and slugs, and will be installed on the Cutler food vending machine that has been patented by Cutler and sold to the Jeffries Sandwich Vending Co.

Peace Is Assured, Says Bible Student Leader

Mr. Herr says of his lecture, "Shifting of governments has been the history of the world and much suffering has resulted from the thoughtless unconcern of powers, —jealous, crafty,—plotting for control of the world. Yet the prophecies revealing present tendencies show that peace, permanent peace, will follow the confusion, distress and reeling perplexity of our world."

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Thankfully, China has no radio broadcasting system such as America and no newspapers of great general circulation. Its lines of communication are slow. Otherwise, there might be a great war in its incipiency.

As it is, the Soviet propaganda forces stirring strife in the foreign colonies are working without the weapons necessary to succeed. Further, the Chinese as a race do not stir to action readily; they have forgotten more about fighting than all of the world has learned.

Chinese starve before they fight. They carry umbrellas to battle and declare an armistice when it rains. They have no responsible central government. And rulers of China would have to deal with the proverbial fifty-seven varieties of dialect in order to co-ordinate their forces.

However, all of these adverse conditions do not mean that an evolutionary revolution is taking place. American and other foreign influences are being felt. Motorcars, motion pictures, radio and newspapers WILL change the Orient. Then what?

Fifty years hence, or in perhaps less time, a momentous upheaval may take place. But not now. The present disturbances are simply a motion. In the meantime the United States must watchfully look toward the sunset on the Pacific and be on guard.

Indeed, the United States must do more. It must prepare to combat within our own country the communistic propaganda surreptitiously spread among students. It is shocking to find in the publication of a nearby university the announcements of soviet agencies, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., which seek to undermine the government from the shadow of the capitol dome.

Destruction of moral and religious influence, attacks on preparedness, pledges to passive resistance against war in the name of "internationalism" are among the elemental objects of the present program. It is a crafty game being played in the hope that the next generation will be so "degenerated" that the "workers," as the communists choose to call themselves, can seize the reins of government. Incidentally, these "workers" are no part of the federated labor group, which does more to combat communism than any political party.

In many of the middle western and eastern states these "workers" have the audacity of nominating candidates for political office and unless the older political parties stir themselves there is every reason to believe that some coalition of the radical wings will have a degree of success before the patriotism of the people is aroused to American principles.

One of the harmful practices is the consistent appointment, both in state and nation, of old men, "lame ducks," to political positions. The exceptions are singular where a youth is named to a responsible post by powers that be.

Nevertheless, it is this rising generation upon which the future security of America rests. The public, in elections, recently has been recognizing the claims of youth. Business men have been making fortunes with "young" organizations.

President Coolidge and Governor Richardson, among others, might do well to create a few new and young political leaders who will be living in the tomorrow, with the next generation. Their influence may be needed.

President Coolidge, by the way, is farther west today than at any time since he has occupied the chief executive's office of this nation. He is at Minneapolis (and St. Paul) where a celebration is being held by the Norwegians. He will have a hard-working, attentive and patriotic group to address this afternoon, but they also represent the most radical wing of progressive action. They vote for LaFollette, elect such representatives as Magnus Johnson and experiment with semi-socialistic enterprises in a more or less unsatisfactory manner.

The president, no doubt, will give them some good advice as well as fulsome praise for having carved an empire in the northern, western section of the union.

STAGE AND SCREEN

VIEWS AND PREVIEWS—NEWS NOTES FROM STUDIOS

Compiled By Members of The Glendale Evening News Staff

Mystery Film

"Raffles," now showing at Glendale theatre, story of sportive crook who keeps the world guessing.

Love, mystery and melodrama are the ingredients from which House Peters' current starring vehicle, "Raffles," the Universal feature now showing at the Glendale theatre, is made.

Adapted from the famous "Amateur Cracksman" stories created by Ernest W. Hornung and Eugene W. Presbrey, the character of Raffles has been heralded by millions of readers as the last word in scientific sleuthing. Raffles, as portrayed by House Peters, is an astounding individual, baffling to everyone but himself.

He is a sportive sort of person, playing a desperate game as calmly as if it were pitch and toss. As the practical joker, Raffles is successful in keeping at bay the greatest criminal analysts of England and the continent.

Plenty of Thrills

Raffles is a gentlemanly crook. Yet it is not a crook play. It is, on the other hand, an ingenious, racy melodrama with amazing and startling situations that keep one literally glued to the seat. House Peters plays the role with deftness and is supported by Miss Dupont, who plays the leading feminine role, an actress of charming personality. The love interest between Raffles and Gwendolyn Amersteth is of touching beauty and avoids much of the dull sentimentality that is usually associated with screen stories.

In "Raffles" House Peters is seen in a role that is totally different from his customary characterizations. In this role he wears the latest cut dinner coat and frequents the homes of the rich and mighty.

EGYPTIAN IRRIGATION

The irrigation department of the Egyptian government recently rejected bids of Central European pine and hereafter will require use of southern pine from America in important government works.

COSMO WILL HOLD 'COUNTRY STORE'

Fun and Frolic For Patrons of Theatre; 'Declasse' Shown On Screen

Shrewd producers! They saved Corinne Griffith to the last. Then they beheaded her. On the last day and the last hour of work on her latest First National picture, "Declasse," now playing at the Cosmo theatre, they laid the beautiful star's head on a block and—swish! But by "swish" is meant "cut," and by "cut" is meant merely the technical cut, denoting that the scene ended in a "fade-out' before the blade had touched the milk-white neck of the screen heroine.

The scene occurs in a "retrospect," fading in while Miss Griffith as the heroine of "Declasse" looks upon an ancestral portrait and recalls what happened to one of the heroine's forebears who upheld the family motto, "Death before dishonor." Miss Griffith herself appears in this "retrospect" as the ancestral martyr.

Floyd Hughes, Clive Brook and Louise Fazenda head the big supporting cast in "Declasse." The picture was adapted from Ethel Barrymore's stage success of the same title and hinges on a scandal in London society.

Tonight is "Country Store" night at the theatre, which means more fun for patrons.

WONDER DOG AT GATEWAY THEATRE

Rin-Tin-Tin Stars In Film Depicting Life In Far North Country

Gateway theatre patrons who attended the performances yesterday afternoon and last night saw Rin-Tin-Tin, the wonder dog, in his greatest vehicle, "Tracked in the Snow Country," and marveled at the many daring and dangerous feats this animal with human intelligence does in portraying the leading role. The picture will remain at the Gateway theatre today and tomorrow.

Included in the cast are June Marlowe, David Butler and Mitchell Lewis. The story is a typical Alaskan feature, and the climax comes when Rin-Tin-Tin trails his human enemy across miles of frozen and barren wastes in an unceasing desire for revenge, and wreaks vengeance upon the villain.

We Sponsor the Memorial Hall Bond Election June 16, 1925

—BECAUSE—

1—Our soldiers and sailors—the men and women who offered and gave their lives in all America's wars—are worthy the modest memorial planned.

2.—The hall will provide a center and school for patriotism, an efficient aid to the children's schools which we earnestly support. It will provide a home for any and all service organizations desiring to use it. At present almost all such societies meet here, there, and anywhere they can, rent and overhead holding down their membership and funds needed for civic and patriotic endeavors.

3.—Glendale is one of the very few cities similar in size and ambition which has not erected an adequate token of appreciation to its veterans.

4.—The memorial—neither ornate nor luxurious but substantial and serviceable—will be built, owned and controlled by the city and located where city authorities may determine.

5.—The American Legion, true to its promise, is turning in the site voted them two years ago to be used or sold as may be deemed best. The Patriotic and Memorial Hall association, if made custodian of the memorial, plans to maintain and care for it.

6.—The cost is ridiculously small in proportion to the great benefits to be derived from this great civic asset. To the average taxpayer—less than "a pint of ice cream per year."

7.—Because we know the people did not forget their sons and daughters during the trying days of war and steadfastly believe they will not forget them now.

—VOTE YES FOR THE MEMORIAL BONDS—

A SCHOOL FOR PATRIOTISM

AMERICANISM is a subject taught extensively in our schools, no oration from the pulpit seems complete without its mention and in our homes we live according to the principles it represents. It must have meant much to the men and women who since the inception of this government have given their lives for it. All of us at some time or other have made sacrifices, some great and some small through the spirit of Americanism and it is this spirit that has made the nation what it is today. It is the spirit we are handing down to our children in schools.

It is deemed fitting, therefore, that the citizens of Glendale look with favor on the coming bond issue.

On June 16, our esteemed city will be asked to vote on two bond issues—school bonds and Memorial hall bonds—each issue highly worthy of an affirmative vote.

The school bonds are obviously desirable in a city whose growth is as rapid as Glendale's and the Memorial hall bonds as a patriotic monument for the shelter, encouragement and promotion of all patriotic organizations and activities.

The D. A. R., the G. A. R., the W. R. C., the American Legion, the Spanish War Veterans, the Sons of Veterans, the Daughters of Veterans, the War Mothers and, in fact, all patriotic organizations of Glendale have been more or less handicapped for lack of proper housing.

No one can call this city unpatriotic and no one ever has, to our knowledge; but let's encourage the perpetuation of those sentiments which make America the hope and inspiration of the world by a fitting commemoration of our reverence and esteem for those who have actively had a part in the upholding of those traditions, rights and privileges.

AMERICANISM—a monumental expression of Glendale's contribution to it—such will be the Memorial hall which your favorable consideration of the forthcoming bond issue will mean, really a high class school for patriotism, at a cost, for this feature, of less than two cents per hundred dollars to the taxpayer.

Likewise the educational expansion of the young will be assured by carrying the school bonds. Vote YES on both propositions—they supplement each other.

HENRY PRUSSING.

COLLEGE CLUB INFLUENCES EDUCATION

Glendale Women Have Big Opportunity To Help, Says Mrs. Parr

The opportunity the Glendale College Women's club has as a branch of the American Association of University Women to influence the standard of higher education was stressed by Mrs. Frank W. Parr, retiring president, and Mrs. Charles A. Barker, president-elect, in their greetings to club members at the annual club outing Saturday at the home of Mrs. Montague Cleeves in Little Tujunga canyon.

Ideally located in the seclusion of the canyon, the Cleeves home provided a most delightful setting for the outing. Over forty club members enjoyed luncheon and an informal program under the oak and sycamore trees.

Mrs. Parr presided over the festivities of the afternoon. She gave a final message to the club and conducted a burlesque installation, retiring officers reading humorous wills to their successors.

Realization of Dream

In her talk Mrs. Baker stated that the formation of the club was a realization of her dream of bringing college and university trained women together, and that she considers it a pleasure and a duty of every woman eligible to join.

On behalf of the club Mrs. F. S. Balthis presented Mrs. Parr with a gold-banded fountain pen Mrs. Sara Mullen has invited the club to spend the day of July 15

Reports that pressure will be brought to bear to have funds now available spent on a new bridge at Hyperion way and another at Fletcher drive, without including the proposed new Glendale boulevard span, brought forth the assurance from community leaders in the Atwater district that they would countenance no action that would jeopardize the chances for a new span to connect Glendale boulevard with the road through Ivanhoe'

SIX GLENDALE ARTISTS ON RADIO BILL

Music Program Interspersed By Talk On Wonder City's Home Life

Music, mingled with a short talk on the beauties of Glendale and the advantages of the city, featured the hour's radio program of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce over KFI Saturday night.

Six Glendale artists appeared on the musical program arranged for the occasion by Miss Virginia Freeman, noted soprano, for many years with the Metropolitan Grand Opera Co. They were Cecil Bonham, soprano, Milford Jackson, baritone, G. A. Fjielstrom, cellist, Julius Philips, Mrs. Harry McMullen, soprano, and Carlotta Fjiestrom, contralto.

Miss Virginia Freeman

E. G. Warren, Glendale realtor, gave a five-minute talk on Glendale, in which he told why Glendale, instead of any other city of the Southland, should be chosen by the easterner. In part, he said:

"Glendale's populace is made up of energetic men and women of vision who have the fitness of body and strength of character to 'build more stately mansions' to the completion of their visions which are comfort, peace and happiness.

"There are no bread fruit trees to drop food into the lap of an idler, nor cocoanuts cracked for the drinking, without an effort. But, with no extremes of heat or cold; with the richest agricultural county in the United States; with some of the greatest manufacturing plants in the world; with more than 65 per cent of country's mineral supply produced within a few miles; with the greatest of all lumber markets; with the largest and safest manmade harbor, with its 105-passenger and freight steamship lines reaching to every corner of the entire world; with the Panama Canal cutting transportation costs to the minimum on raw materials and manufactured articles; with the huge petroleum industry in the most productive oil districts ever developed, Glendale, and vicinity, offer an endless field of accomplishment for those who have energy and ambition.

E. G. Warren

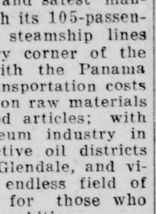
"For the ambitious and those who build for the future upon the successes of the present, Glendale offers endless opportunity and joy in the achieving.

"In education, churches and schools are included. Of the former, we have twenty of all denominations that are well attended by a God-fearing, contented people; who are, however, entirely human with charity for all and malice toward none. There is little, if any, friction among the different elements of our society. They all agree that our town shall have no public pool rooms, no drinking clubs, no demoralizing dance halls nor any other influence that might detract from the completeness of our manhood and our womanhood.

Mrs. Harry McMullen

"The Y. M. C. A., our parks, our playgrounds and swimming pools, supplement the influence of our churches and the teachings in our schools.

"Our school system is known far and wide for its variety and completeness of instruction. In fact, Glendale and the suburbs before mentioned, pay more per capita for the education and training of their children than any other city or community in the entire American continent.



Milford Jackson

"Glendale's spirit of hospitality and friendship reaches out over intervening space to you all, our playgrounds and swimming bid you come. There is a place prepared for you."

ROBBERS LOOT PHARMACY OF $300

Sunday Morning Burglary Of Acacia Drug Store Is Carefully Planned

Leaving a trail of blood behind them, burglars early Sunday morning broke into the Acacia pharmacy, 922 South Glendale avenue, forced open the cash drawers and obtained approximately $300 in cash. The same yeggmen are believed to have attempted a few hours earlier to enter the Park avenue pharmacy, Brand boulevard and Park avenue, but they were frightened away after a panel of a side door had been hammered in.

At the Acacia pharmacy the burglars smashed a heavy showcase. Police believe it was on the broken glass that one of them was severely cut on the hands.

Gloves Worn by Yeggmen

An investigation by Lieutenant Nunn shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday morning indicated that the yeggmen wore gloves because no fingerprints could be obtained. But marking every move in the store, bloody imprints were left. A piece of gas pipe, apparently used to gain entrance through a side window, was found inside covered with blood.

Lieut. Nunn and Patrolman Larson discovered that the store had been entered, shortly before 4 o'clock. They called G. C. Harris, proprietor, who said that Saturday's receipts totaling about $300 had been in the looted cash drawers.

Glendale High school boys' glee club won first place in Eisteddfod finals, held Saturday night, when they triumphed over high school organizations from Inglewood and Ventura. The final events were staged at Bovard auditorium, University of Southern California, and attracted a large crowd.

The Glendale club, under the direction of Mrs. Charles Parker, was acclaimed best by the judges on their presentation of "Old Road" and "Bells of Shandon." The club was presented with a large banner, the award for state leadership in high school boys' glee clubs of California.

In the girls' glee club finals, also staged at Bovard auditorium, Inglewood High school took first place. Other contestants were Glendale, Redlands and Ventura High schools.

Final events in the California Eisteddfod contests opened in Glendale Saturday afternoon. Excepting for a few minor programs, all events scheduled for this week will be held in this city, either at the Broadway High and Glendale Intermediate school auditoriums or at music studios in the downtown district.

Twenty-nine Competing in Vocal Finals

Twenty-nine winners in vocal divisions in district Eisteddfod contests over Southern California will participate in the finals at the Glendale Intermediate school tonight, starting at 7:30 o'clock. The program, one of rare excellence, promises to attract one of the largest audiences of the Eisteddfod events in Glendale to date.

Competitions in soprano, contralto, tenor, baritone and bass singing in addition to several duet and trio exhibitions will be staged tonight. Glendale district will be represented in the final vocal events by Gladys S. Fischer of Burbank, district winner in the soprano contests; Glenn R. Dolberg, baritone winner, and John Grant Wright, who took first in the Glendale tenor events. In addition there will be contests in high school girls' singing tonight. Judging of the events will be handled by Mrs. Flora Myers Engle and her assistants.

ARTIST TELLS BEAUTY OF DESERT

Francis Grayson Sayre Is Speaker At Association Meeting Sunday

Members of the Glendale Art association yesterday at the Van Grove studio heard Francis Grayson Sayre, painter of desert landscapes, talk of the desert from the viewpoint of the artist, and describe the pleasure he finds in its vast solitude.

"There is something in the desert that meets the call of the artist," he said. "I have spent four months at a time in Coachella valley and it is always different. I sought for years to depict the mountain haze which adds as much to the western picture, as the perfume does to the rose. From around Beaumont, Banning and San Gorgonio pass, the wind is always blowing down into Coachella Valley, and causes that haze, and the mountains in that vicinity and the hills around Indio that most of the day are barren, at a certain time, take on a wondrous beauty.

"Clear mountains can be painted easily, but to put on the haze has been difficult. I love painting sand as many artists love to paint the ocean. I feel a message in the vast lonely spaces and that is what I am struggling to put in pictures. Other beauties are the sunset in the desert, the moonlight and the starlight; but nothing is more beautiful than the dawn in the desert.

Moonlight View

"In Red Rock canyon I saw a moonlight picture that I am going back to paint. The desert is of peculiar interest to the geologist, the botanist in search of wild flowers, and the student of small wild animals; but the time is coming when the desert will be destroyed. Between Palm Springs and Indio the sand dunes are to make way for the planting of dates and other things. I'd like to preserve the desert.

"We should foster the art spirit to protect and not destroy nature's beauty, foster the idea of living in the valleys and not mutilate the hills. Mutilation of the landscape must be replaced by civic art; we want to preserve

GIVE EUROPE 100 YEARS

The chief concern of Washington as well as of the rest of the world today is the war debt settlement question, and every citizen has a plan of his own for restoring peace, confidence and credit throughout Europe by the manner of handling this question.

There has been presented to President Coolidge by B. F. Yoakum, the railway magnate, a plan which is meeting with considerable favor in Washington. This embraces a mutual debt-funding arrangement giving the European countries 100 years to pay America and one another, at 2½ per cent interest, commencing two years after their obligations' date. The author of this plan thinks one good feature of it is that it would establish a community of interest among the nations concerned that would make for world peace and that it would give America the moral leadership of the world. "The war set the world back 100 years," he says, "so why not give it 100 years to recover?" If European taxpayers are pressed any harder he believes repudiation will result.

Mr. Yoakum claims that America has not been a hard creditor. If she had been, Europe would have been thrown into bankruptcy long ago or the quarrels over her obligations would have led to results that would have inflamed the whole world against us.

The author of this plan has made personal investigations and he believes that it will satisfy Americans and be accepted by Europe, very essential features of any method which may be considered for the settlement of this question.

DOCTRINES AND RIGHT LIVING

While the clergy wrangles over doctrinal differences, the young people are getting out of hand, says the Rev. Dr. Ira Landreth, former moderator of the Presbyterian church. One should fight for his principles, even in the church, especially in the church, yet these doctrinal controversies not only do not advance the cause of Christianity, but they actually hinder it. We should defend our honest beliefs, religious or otherwise, but the purpose of the church is to further the gospel, and doctrines are not the whole of religion.

Rudyard Kipling said that when man has come to the turnstiles of Night, all the creeds of the world seem to him wonderfully alike.

The plain gospel is the greatest need of the world today. Of course the fundamentalist would claim that he is fighting for that very thing. He cannot stand by and see trampled in the dust the doctrines that are not only a part of his religion but of his life as well. On the other hand, the modernist is perfectly honest in his interpretation of the scriptures and will not change his opinion; hence the futility of argument and controversy. Men will never agree on these questions.

There is some truth in the charge that young people are turning away from religion today. This is only one of the problems of the church, but it is big enough and important enough that the cause of Christianity would be advanced and humanity served if all ministers and all churches would forget their differences and concentrate upon it. This question is vital to civilization itself and so is deserving of our attention.

GOVERNMENT BY THE FEW

President Coolidge says if we wish to continue to be self-governing we must learn to do some governing. When only 50 per cent of those eligible to vote are registered and when less than 25 per cent of those registered appear at the polls on election day, as occurred in Los Angeles recently, we do not have representative government, by any means. When we think that a majority of the people are so careless of a privilege that was bought with the blood of their fathers, we must tremble for the future of the republic. When the pilgrims at Plymouth laid down the law of self-government and agreed that every man should have his rights in the colony, and that the governor should be chosen by the people and not by the crown, they inspired the great vital force which lies at the foundation of the republic, and when we ignore this great principle we undermine the firm foundation they laid with such infinite pains.

We cannot have good government unless all the people, or at least a majority of the people, are interested and participate in it. And the people have no interest in the government—other than to criticise those in power—when they do not vote. The citizen who neglects his duty at the polls is as culpable and unpatriotic as the man who, elected to high office, betrays his trust.

THE BIBLE MARATHON

The Yucaipa Bible reading marathon has established the fact that it takes seventy hours to read the Bible from cover to cover. If this fact is of any importance other than to satisfy curiosity, then the marathon was worth while. It was a good publicity stunt, but it is doubtful if anyone is the better for it. The picture of the pastor and his wife sleepily reading to each other from 2 to 5 in the morning while the rest of the congregation were home in bed or sleeping in the pews is not especially inspiring. The finish during the seventieth hour, with the members of the congregation chanting in unison from the book of Revelation was probably dramatic, but it is a question whether the stunt as a whole increased the interest in Bible reading.

CHEAP LITERATURE

The protest of Glendale people against the sale of salacious magazines is only part of a movement that is becoming nation-wide. Nearly every wide-awake community is sweeping this filth from its doors. The way to guard against the future invasion of risque literature is to create a taste and a demand for good literature, and the only place this can be done is in the home. People who allow cheap literature, or worse, in their homes cannot expect their children to acquire a taste for that which is inspirational and elevating. The boy or girl who is being allowed to grow up without making the acquaintance of good books is being cheated.

BEAUTY AND THE BEAST(S)

The World Wags On

By DR. FRANK CRANE

All of us think that we are of considerable importance and we acquire the impression that affairs could not get along without us.

Sometimes we seem to be very necessary in the eyes of others. It is singular how when death comes we observe the world moving smoothly on.

A Lincoln or a Garfield may be removed. Some hearts are broken, but in the majority of homes life continues as usual.

We throw a pebble into a pool. There are a few ripples, but soon the surface is calm again. Somehow or other this world has a way of wagging on. It moved long years before we came and it will move along after we are gone.

If anyone thinks he is somewhat, it is a good plan for him to go to the cemetery once in a while and see what will become of him.

William Feather says, "Lincoln Steffens, after years of activity in behalf of civilization, rested from his labors, and finally made a public confession in which he said it was a shock to discover that the world did not fall to pieces when he let go."

It may be right for us to take hold and do our share, but we should not think too highly of ourselves. Even if we do not do our share sustenance will come from some other place.

You remember what Mordecai said to Esther: "If thou altogether holdest thy peace at this time, doubtless deliverance and enlargement shall arrive to the Jews from another place, but thou and thy father's house shall be destroyed."

Sometimes we get an idea that we are holding up the sky or that the universe depends upon us.

We are but little specks that come and go, and the processes of the suns will go on without our assistance.

Horoscope

Saturn in benefic aspect rules this day, according to astrology. In the evening Mars is adverse.

This should be a particularly favorable rule for all the ambitious plans of labor interests. There is a good sign for banking and for all co-operative enterprises.

There is a favorable rule for all real estate operations, for the stars will incline men to covet the ownership of lands.

Mining again will interest many persons this year, it is foretold, for new camps will be opened in Canada or British Columbia, as well as the United States.

After sundown there may be an inclination toward irritability and quarrels may be easily precipitated. The rule is a threatening one for domestic harmony.

The aspects incline toward restless activity that causes futile haste. There should be care to maintain poise and deliberate movements.

A tendency to exaggerate and to overestimate may be evident in business representations, and for this reason caution must be exercised.

It is well to avoid all financial risks at this time, for there is to be reason to conserve individual resources.

Useful work in all lines in which physical strength is employed may be easily accomplished today, but there may be much inclination toward the use of brute force when it is unnecessary.

Neptune is in a place that is exceedingly menacing to the British government and a summer of sensational events appears to be indicated.

Religious riots and serious political disturbances are forecast for parts of India.

The Balkans are subject to a direction of the stars making for bloodshed and grave conditions that again may have a far-reaching effect.

Mars in Libra will disturb the peace of Austria, China and Japan in the autumn, it is foretold.

Persons whose birthdate it is probably will have rather an uneventful year. Business may be fairly satisfactory.

Children born on this day may have careers that are of average success. These subjects of Gemini usually care for many things outside of business and may be apathetic about accumulating money.

A tendency to exaggerate and to overestimate may be evident in business representations, and for this reason caution must be exercised.

Today's Poem

A PARTING GUEST

What delightful hosts are they—
Life and Love!
Lingeringly I turn away,
This late hour, yet glad enough
They have not withheld from me
Their high hospitality,
So, with face lit with delight
And all gratitude, I stay
Yet to press their hands and say,
"Thanks—So fine a time! Good night."

THEM WERE THE DAYS

Smith strolled through the campus and looked about him with the romantic eye of the old grad.

"Still, it's not like it was in the good old days!" he observed, to himself he thought, but an undergraduate overheard.

"It's not so bad though at that, old timer," the undergrad spoke up. "I've been here two years now and we still manage to have a lot of fun."

"But I heard a bunch of serenaders last night, and they were awful!" the old grad protested. "And they tell me the police made them go home. Think of it! No cop would ever have pulled anything like that in the old days. And the co-eds—say, we had real queens in those days! I'm glad I went to school here while there was something doing. You youngsters will never know what you missed, but, take it from me, the old days were the days."

"What was your class anyway?" the undergrad asked.

"Nineteen twenty-three," the old grad proudly told him.

WORLD MOVES, NOT DOG

A kind-hearted gentleman, hearing a dog howling mournfully, decided to investigate the animal's ailment. He found the dog sitting calmly upon his haunches but still emitting agonized yelps.

"What ails your dog?" he asked the hound's owner.

"Oh, he's just lazy," returned the owner unconcernedly.

"But laziness won't make a dog howl."

"Yes, but that dog is sitting on a sandburr."

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

CLARK KINNAIRD

Man owes his growth, his energy, chiefly to that striving of the will, that conflict with difficulty, we call effort.

Easy, pleasant work does not make robust minds, does not give men a consciousness of their powers, does not train them to endurance, to perseverance, to steady force of will, that force without which all other acquisitions avail nothing.

Consequently, we have William Ellery Channing saying that manual labor is a school in which men are placed to get energy or purpose and character—a vastly more important endowment than all the learning of other schools.

Run through the list of the great men of the nation, and note how most of them began as manual laborers, on the farm or in the shop.

"They are placed, indeed, under hard masters, physical sufferings and wants, the power of fearful elements, and the vicissitudes of all human things," Channing observes; "but these stern teachers do a work which no compassionate, indulgent friend could do for us."

* * *

The material world does much for the mind by its beauty and order; but it does more for our minds by the pains it inflicts; by its obstinate resistance, which nothing but patient toil can overcome; by its perils, which demand continual vigilance; and by its tendencies to decay.

More than one wise man has declared that difficulties are more important to the human mind than what we call assistances.

Work we all must, if we mean to bring out and perfect our nature. Even if we do not work with our hands, we must undergo equivalent toil in some other direction.

* * *

"No business or study which does not present obstacles, tasking to the full the intellect and the will, is worthy of a man," Channing avers.

"In science, he who does not grapple with hard questions, who does not concentrate his whole intellect in vigorous attention, who does not aim to penetrate what at first repels him, will never attain to mental force."

* * *

Work is not merely the grand instrument by which the earth is overspread with fruitfulness and beauty, and the ocean subdued, and crude things wrought into innumerable forms for comfort and ornament.

It has a far higher function, which is to give force to the will, efficiency, courage, the capacity of endurance, and of persevering devotion.

"Ease, rest, owes its deliciousness to toil; and no toil is so burdensome as the rest to him who has nothing to task and quicken his powers," it is observed.

FATHER'S TWO SONS

This story is told about a prodigiously strong Irishman and his two sons. One of the sons, a big, strapping young man, had been out of work and had just got a good job that day on a new building. He finished his day's work and was just about to go home when he met the foreman, who said: "You are the best workman I have on the building." On the strength of this, the young man saw a good chance to get his brother a job, and he said: "Say, I've got a brother over home who is just as strong as I am. Do you suppose you could give him a job?"

"Yes, bring him around with you in the morning."

The next day he brought his brother to work. After the day was finished they both went to the foreman. The foreman said: "You are the two best men we have on the building." One of the boys said: "We would like to get our father a job. He can do as much work as both of us. Can you give him a job?"

The foreman said: "Yes, tell your father to come to work tomorrow morning, and you two fellows stay home."

OLD JOKE MADE OVER

If we take the crudest joke in the world—the joke, let us say, of a man sitting down on his hat—we shall yet find that all the nations would differ in their way of treating it humorously, and that if American humor treated it at all it would be in a purely American manner.

For example, there was a case of an orator in the House of Commons who, after denouncing all the public abuses he could think of, did sit down on his hat.

An Irishman immediately rose, full of the whole wealth of Irish humor, and said: "Should I be in order, sir, in congratulating the honorable gentleman on the fact that when he sat down on his hat his head was not in it?"

Loyal Citizens Keep Their Money In the Home City

There are many phases of community loyalty. Speaking a word for the home city at the psychological moment may bring good results in the way of new residents, although shouting "Glendale" is no special mark of loyalty any more than waving the flag is no guarantee of patriotism.

Community loyalty need not be confined to the Chamber of Commerce or to any organization or set of citizens. It is a sentiment that should appeal to all. The mere fact that we live here should give us a certain pride in the city and make us anxious to further Glendale's every interest.

Community loyalty pays in dollars and cents, too. For if you are loyal you spend your dollars here where they enrich Glendale, and you.

As a metropolitan business center Glendale has become widely known, so there is no need to go out of the city to buy. Merchants long ago recognized the fact that the class of people who were being attracted to Glendale to make their homes would not be satisfied with anything less than the best in merchandise and service and they are meeting the people half way in this regard.

Four or five years ago only a few of the very far-sighted could vision Glendale the city it is today. If we continue to spend our money with Glendale merchants a few more years will see Glendale a community of such magnitude and importance as we cannot dream.

Express your Community loyalty by giving the merchants and professional men of Glendale a chance to prove that they are metropolitan.

Heart and Home — Health and Happiness

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWER TO CORRESPONDENTS

Tuberculosis and Pregnancy

Q.—Unless you are cured of tuberculosis, pregnancy may cause a recurrence of your symptoms. Some experts on tuberculosis hold that two years should pass without any signs of the activity of the disease, before a cure can be considered complete.

We have an article on tuberculosis which you may have, by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Harmless Hair Dyes

C.—Probably the only safe hair dyes are those composed of purely vegetable materials such as black walnut, and henna. These perhaps do not give the satisfactory colors that some of the "patent" preparations do, but many of the "patent" preparations contain chemicals that are extremely dangerous.

It is fashionable to have grey hair, and usually it is exceedingly becoming. Why don't you become reconciled to it?

We have an article on the care of the hair, dandruff and grey hair. Send for this. (Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope).

Oil for Deafness

M.—There is no oil which if rubbed into the ear will correct deafness.

The Department of Health of the City of New York analyzed that particular ear oil which you request information about, and found that it consists of liquid petrolatum, camphor, eucolytol and soft soap. Its originator was arrested and put on trial for making false claims. He was sentenced to thirty days in jail or a fine of $250 for making fraudulent statements.

Whole Wheat

J.—Yes, whole wheat is a very valuable food. However it is not a perfect food—any more than any grain is a perfect food—for its protein is not a complete protein since it does not contain all of the elements necessary for repair and building. Wheat is also low in the growth vitamin and calcium.

At the University of Wisconsin some twenty years ago, some feeding experiments on animals showed that the grain—including the plant—was attended by failure of growth and health, and it was thought that it contained some toxic principle.

Now we know that the trouble lay in its deficiencies. Combining it with milk or other foods supplying its deficiencies makes it more valuable.

You can get whole wheat from any feed store. In cooking it, you have to soak it several hours; bring it to a boil and cook from twenty to thirty minutes; double boiler. If you want the home ground whole wheat meal, you can grind it in your coffee grinder.

The Free Prescription Fake

Mr. H.—There is a form of mail order quackery that is very insidious. The offer is for free prescriptions for rheumatism or neuritis or some such thing, when you get it you will find that no druggist carries one or more of the drugs that the prescription calls for, and so you have to buy the medicines from the advertiser.

Don't pin your faith on anything like this. If you need medicine, you should be under the personal care of your physician. Don't be misled by these mail order prescription fakes, no matter if they are sent out by return soldiers who got them from "noted French physicians."

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s.a.s.e., if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Brown Rice Cakes: The brown or uncoated rice is especially good for us. Lime, which is found in all cereals, predominates in brown rice. White, refined rice is more attractive in appearance and we could not give it up entirely; but we should also eat an abundance of the brown rice, for the coating of the latter is rich in minerals which we need. To make the brown rice cakes, cook one cup of brown rice in one quart of sweet milk, with a pinch of salt, till the rice is tender and has absorbed the milk. It may be necessary to add a little more milk if the rice becomes too dry. When tender, add to it one-third cup of butter, one-fourth cup of granulated sugar and the grated rind and juice of one-half lemon. Mix so gently that you do not break the rice kernels, then cool, form in small cakes, dip these in flour, and fry them on a hot, greased griddle, turning when browned on one side. Serve hot with maple sirup.

Baked Gingerbread Pudding: Break it up into crumbs and measure. You will need two cupfuls. Let these crumbs stand in three cups of sweet milk for fifteen minutes, then add to the mixture one-half cup of brown sugar, one-half teaspoon of ground cinnamon, one-third teaspoon of ground nutmeg, and a small pinch of ground cloves. Last, stir in two well-beaten but unseparated eggs. Turn this into a buttered pudding dish, stand the dish in a shallow pan containing a little hot water, and slip into a moderate oven to bake for forty to forty-five minutes. Serve hot with any good hard sauce. (A brown-sugar and butter sauce flavored with vanilla makes a good choice).

Cream Cheese Salad: Either cottage or cream cheese may be used. Add to one-half cupful of it one-half red sweet pepper which has been finely diced (seeds removed). Or use one tablespoonful of canned pimentoes instead. Form the cheese into small balls and place these on crisp lettuce leaves which have been sprinkled with French dressing.

Answer to "Mrs. P. C." and "Oakland Reader": I am afraid your piccalilli and Chili sauce are spoiled because of the condition you mention. I would not dare to eat it myself, and should advise you not to. It is too bad but we all make some mistakes, don't we? Plenty of other housekeepers have had the same misfortune.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

HANDS AND GLOVES

Good gloves will redeem badly shaped hands but badly cut, cheap gloves will make the most beautifully formed hands look ugly and ordinary. If you must economize on clothes, economize on hats, suits and dresses, but never on gloves, shoes or corsets (if you wear the latter). Your chances of being considered well dressed are at least twenty times greater if your hands and feet are smartly and sensibly clad, and if your figure looks trim and is carried well. Incidentally, a cheap suit may wear well and look well too, if kept nicely pressed, but cheap gloves and shoes are a failure from the first day.

You do not need many pairs of gloves. Long white ones are nice for evening functions, but not essential. We are much less formal now than ten years ago, and except at very large functions, bare hands and arms are quite all right. But a short or a gauntlet length pair of white gloves are needed for "dress-up" times. White washable suede is best, first class in quality; you'll save cleaning bills, and you can be sure, if you wash the gloves as soon as they soil, that they'll be fresh and clean whenever you want them again.

You could even manage with two pairs, a white pair and a good dark cape or suede for street wear, if you had to. Better two pair of really good, well fitting gloves, than six cheap pair. Suede is now smarter than cape, it wears better, for when cape cracks down the forefinger, it looks hopelessly old. Suede can be cleaned at home by rubbing with a little gasoline on a cloth, cape is hard to clean this way, and suede is softer and does not scuff on the surface. Dark brown or dark gray are sensible colors, and will make the hands look smaller. Thin French kid shows up all the hand's bad points, thick leather is smarter.

Very Much Worried:—It is possible that the grey hairs are dead ones resulting from your recent illness. Massage your scalp every night until you feel it glow from increased circulation, and shampoo every other week instead of each week. Try castile soap as a shampoo for a time as it is made from good oils and not so drying as the shampoo you have been using.

Violet R:—The tea you mention is a blood purifier much the same as the teas made for this purpose from dandelion, burdock or yellow-dock. All of these beverages clear the skin but should be taken in the spring or warm weather, since they have a tendency to thin the blood.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

The HOUSE Of The ARROW

A SERIAL STORY WRITTEN BY A. E. W. MASON

Protected By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"Yes, Mademoiselle. You determined to think out the tenor of your letter."

A hint of a smile glimmered upon the girl's face for a second. "But it was an excuse really, an excuse to sit down in my big armchair, stretch out my legs and do nothing at all. You can guess what happened."

Hanaud smiled and nodded.

"You fell fast asleep. Conscience does not keep young people, who are healthy and tired, awake," he said.

"No, but it wakes up with them," Ann returned, "and upbraids at once bitterly. I woke up rather chilly, as people do who have gone to sleep in their chairs. I was wearing a little thin frock of pale blue tulle—oh, a featherweight of a frock! Yes, I was cold and my conscience was saying, 'Oh, big lazy one! And your better? Where is it?'

"In a moment I was standing up and the next I was out of the room on the landing, and I was still half dazed with sleep. I closed my door behind me. It was just chance that I did it. The lights were all out on the staircase and in the hall below. The curtains were drawn across the windows. There was no moon that night. I was in a darkness so complete that I could not see the glimmer of my hand when I raised it close before my face."

Hanaud let the end of his cigarette drop at his feet. Betty had raised her face and was staring at Ann with her mouth parted. For all of them the garden had disappeared with its sunlight and its roses and its singing birds. They were upon that staircase with Ann Upcott in the black night. The swift changes of color in her cheeks and of expression in her eyes—the nervous vividness of her compelled them to follow with her.

"Yes, Mademoiselle?" said Hanaud quietly.

"The darkness didn't matter to me," she went on, with an amazement at her own fearlessness, now that she knew the after-history of that evening. "I am afraid now. I wasn't then," and Jim remembered how the night before in the garden her eyes had shifted from this dark spot to that in search of an intruder. Certainly she was afraid now! Her hands were clenched tight upon the arms of her chair, her lips shook.

"I knew every tread of the stairs. My hand was on the balustrade. There was no sound. It never occurred to me that any one was awake except myself. I did not even turn on the light in the hall by the switch at the bottom of the stairs. I knew that there was a switch just inside the door of Betty's room, and that was enough. I think, too, that I didn't want to rouse anybody. At the foot of the stairs I turned right like a soldier. Exactly opposite to me across the hall was the door of Betty's room. I crossed the hall with my hands out in front of me," and Betty, as though she herself were crossing the hall, suddenly thrust both her hands out in front of her.

"Yes, one would have to do that," she said slowly. "In the dark—with nothing but space in front of one— Yes!" and then she smiled as she saw that Hanaud's eyes were watching her curiously. "Don't you think so, Monsieur Hanaud?"

"No doubt," said he. "But let us not interrupt, Mademoiselle."

"I touched the wall first," Ann resumed, "just at the angle of the corridor and the hall."

"The corridor with the windows on to the courtyard on the one side and the doors of the receptions on the other?" Hanaud asked.

"Yes."

"Were the curtains drawn across all those windows, too, Mademoiselle?"

"Yes. There was not a glimmer of light anywhere. I felt my way along the wall to my right—that is, in the hall, of course, not the corridor—until my hands slipped off the surface and touched nothing. I had reached the embrasure of the doorway. I felt for the door-knob, turned it and entered the room. The light switch was in the wall at the side of the door, close to my left hand. I snapped it down. I think that I was still half asleep when I turned the light on in the treasure room, as we called it. But the next moment I was wide awake—oh, I have never been more wide awake in my life. My fingers indeed were hardly off the switch after turning the light on, before they were back again turning the light off. But this time I eased the switch up very carefully, so that there should be no snap—no, not the tiniest sound to betray me. There was so short an interval between the two movements of my hand that I had just time to notice the clock on the top of the marquetry cabinet in the middle of the wall opposite to me, and then once more I stood in darkness, but stock still and holding my breath—a little frightened—yes, no doubt a little frightened, but more astonished than frightened. For in the inner wall of the room, at the other end, close by the window, there,"—and Ann pointed to the second of those shuttered windows which stared so blankly on the garden—"the door which was always locked since Simon Harlowe's death stood open and a bright light burned beyond."

Betty Harlowe uttered a little cry.

"That door?" she exclaimed, now at last really troubled. "It stood open? How can that have been?"

"On which side of the door was the key, Mademoiselle?"

"On Madame's, if the key was in the lock at all."

"Oh! You don't remember whether it was?"

"No," said Betty. "Of course both Ann and I were in and out of Madame's bedroom when she was ill, but there was a dressing room between the bedroom and the communicating door of my room, so that we should not have noticed."

"To be sure," Hanaud agreed. "The dressing room in which the nurse might have slept and did when Madame had a seizure. Do you remember whether the communicating door was still open or unlocked on the next morning?"

Betty frowned and reflected, and shook her head.

"I cannot remember. We were all in great trouble. There was so much to do. I did not notice."

"No. Indeed, why should you?" said Hanaud. He turned back to Ann. "Before you go on with this curious story, Mademoiselle, tell me this! Was the light beyond the open door, a light in the dressing room or in the room beyond the dressing room, Madame Harlowe's bedroom, or didn't you notice?"

"In the far room, I think," Ann answered confidently. "There would have been more light in the treasure room otherwise. The treasure room is long no doubt but where I stood I was completely in darkness. There was only this panel of yellow light in the open doorway. It lay in a band straight across the carpet and it lit up the sedan chair opposite the doorway until it all glistened like silver."

"Oho, there is a sedan chair in that museum?" said Hanaud lightly. "It will be interesting to see. So the light, Mademoiselle, came from the far room?"

"The light and—and the voices," said Ann with a quaver in her throat.

"Voices!" cried Hanaud. He sat up straight in his chair, while Betty Harlowe went as white as a ghost. "Voices! What is this? Did you recognize those voices?"

"One, Madame's. There was no mistaking it. It was loud and violent for a moment. Then it went off into a mumble of groans. The other voice only spoke once and very few words and very clearly. But it spoke in a whisper. There was too a sound of—movements."

"Movements!" said Hanaud sharply; and with his voice his face seemed to sharpen too. "Here's a word which does not help us much. A procession moves. So does the chair, if I push it. So does my hand if I cover a mouth and stop a cry. Is it that sort of movement you mean, Mademoiselle?"

Under the stern insistence of his questions Ann Upcott suddenly weakened.

"Oh, I am afraid so," she said with a loud cry, and she clapped her hands to her face. "I never understood until this morning when you spoke of how the arrow might be used. Oh, I shall never forgive myself. I stood in the darkness, a few yards away—no more—I stood quite still and listened and just beyond the lighted doorway Madame was being killed!" She drew her hands from her face and beat upon her knees with her clenched fists in a frenzy.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Copyright, 1925, By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE TOOTHACHE.

One morning, before the school bell had played its early ding-dong song, Mrs. Longears saw Uncle Wiggily hopping around the hollow stump bungalow with a strong piece of string in one paw.

"What are you going to do, my dear?" she asked her new husband. "Are you going to jump rope with Jingle and Jangle."

"No, I am going to tie this cord to Wizzie's aching tooth and pull it out, so it won't hurt any more," answered Mr. Longears. "Wizzie has a loose tooth that aches. I found him crying with the pain a little while ago, and I talked to him and asked him to let me pull his tooth for him."

"And did he say he would," asked Mrs. Longears, doubtful like.

"After quite a bit of talk he did," answered the rabbit gentleman with a laugh. "At first he was afraid it would hurt, but I told him the pain would be very little and would be over in a second. So he told me to come in and get the string and pull his tooth. He is out in the yard waiting for me!"

"Wizzie is braver than I thought he was," said the mother rabbit. "But be careful, Uncle Wiggily, not to pull his sister Weezie's tooth by mistake. You know my little twin rabbit boy and girl look so much alike that sometimes I can't tell them apart."

"Oh, I can easily tell Weedie from Wizzie," chuckled Mr. Longears. Weezie wears dresses and Wizzie had on knickerbockers. I'll go out now and pull Wizzie's aching tooth and then he can hop along to school."

So the rabbit gentleman hopped out in the yard where the clover grew deep and thick, and there se saw a little rabbit child sitting on a round stone.

"There's my brave little Wizzie!" cried Uncle Wiggily in a jolly voice. "There's Wizzie sitting on a stone, as if it were a chair, in the Dentist Bear's office, waiting to have his aching tooth pulled. And I'm going to be the dentist and pull it!"

Holding his string ready, Uncle Wiggily hopped to the little rabbit child, whose back was turned toward the bunny gentleman.

"Here I come!" cried Uncle Wiggily, gaily—that is, as gaily as one can speak about a toothache. "Here I come! Open your mouth real wide now, Wizzie, and I'll soon have that tooth out."

The rabbit child's mouth was open. Uncle Wiggily was about to put the loop of the string around a tooth, when, looking a second time into the open mouth, Uncle Wiggily could see no loose tooth. All the teeth were white and sound. None had a hole in.

"Why! Why!" exclaimed the rabbit dad'y uncle. "Why, where's your aching tooth, Wizzie?" Then the bunny looked more closely and he saw that it wasn't the little boy rabbit at all, but Weezie, his sister. She had on a pair of Wizzie's knickerbockers and looked just like her brother. "Why, Weezie! What does this mean?" cried Uncle Wiggily. "I nearly pulled one of your teeth in mistake."

"I'm glad you didn't," spoke Weezie, wriggling off the stone. "Wizzie got frightened, after thinking about having his tooth pulled, and he gave me five cents out of his bank to dress up like him and take his place. He said he'd give me five more after you pulled one of my teeth instead of his. But I'm glad you didn't 'cause I haven't any toothache."

"The idea! What a shame it would have been if I had pulled one of your good teeth in mistake!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "Where is Wizzie?"

"There he goes!" cried Weezie, pointing to her brother, who was running across the garden wearing his sister's dress. And this dress got him into trouble and out again.

For not knowing how to run in a girl's skirt, Wizzie found his legs tangled. He fell down, bumped his mouth hard on the ground and when he arose, weeping, he cried:

"Oh, look! Look! When I fell I knocked out my aching tooth and now you don't have to pull it," Daddycums!" And, surely enough, that's just what happened. Uncle Wiggily laughed a little and then told Wizzie he must not be a coward and fear to have a tooth pulled and the little rabbit chap said he never would act that way again. And he didn't.

"But, anyhow," he said. "I'm glad the tooth got knocked out so you didn't have the trouble of pulling it, Daddycums'" And if the red robin doesn't pull the shoe lace out of the rag doll's rubber boot, thinking it's a worm, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the song sparrow.

CITY'S BUDGET CALLS FOR PROTESTS

Announce Protestants Will Urge Reduction In Sums Council Proposes

Public hearing on the proposed $1,374,265 municipal budget for 1925-26 will be held before the City Council on Thursday, June 18, at 10 o'clock when, protestants have announced, they will urge reductions in the proposed amounts to be given various departments for the next fiscal year.

The budget as tentatively prepared provides for an approximate tax levy increase of 12 cents per $100 valuation, making a total of $1.23 per $100.

Although the budget as it will be opened to the public for hearing on June 18 is now only in process of completion, it is known there will be several changes from the proposed budget as submitted to the council by City Manager V. B. Stone. While Stone provided for $27,600 for garbage disposal during the next fiscal year, the council recently adopted an agreement raising the amount to be spent for that purpose on contract by $550 monthly.

Division of Budget

The general government budget as submitted to the council totals $498,200; the public service department, $787,740; library department, $37,725, and park board, $50,500.

Income from the water department during the next fiscal year is estimated at $243,555 and from the light department, $489,185. Redemption of funded debt of the public service department, paid at the rate of $11,500 yearly, will be increased under the proposed budget next year to $19,500. Total expense of the water department, exclusive of capital outlay, is estimated at $149,449 for the next fiscal year and for the light department at $247,454.

While there was a surplus of $125,338.67 in the public service department at the end of the 1923-24 fiscal year, and the estimated surplus at the end of the present fiscal year is estimated to be $60,-989.50, the surplus for next year is estimated at not more than $13,622.

Japs To Hunt Buried Gold In Mediterranean

TOKYO, June 8.—Another edpedition to search for treasure lost during the war, when German submarines sent ships to the bottom of the sea, is to set out shortly from Japan.

This expedition will proceed to the Mediterranean to attempt to recover gold bullion worth 1,000,-000 yen, which was lost when the steamship Yasaka Maru, which was transporting the gold from London to Tokyo, was torpedoed n 1915. A further consignment of bullion, which was lost when a British ship was sunk by a U-boat off Marseilles, also will be sought.

The Japan Mine-Sweeping Co. is sponsoring the expedition and will supply the necessary equipment. Seven experienced divers will be included in the crew.

Du Pont Features New Polish For Automobiles

A new Du Pont product recently placed on the market, and one which is proving very popular, says S. F. Bell, of the Wilson-Bell Hardware Co., 225 North Brand boulevard, is a polish and cleaner for automobiles known as Du Pont No. 7 Duco polish.

This polish has been designed especially for hard, tough surfaces, either lacquered or baked enamel finishes. Its action on ordinary finishes is to remove the paint as Duco polish is very penetrating.

Du Pont No. 7 Duco polish will restore the original luster and finish to Duco and Duro surfaces, according to Mr. Bell. Automobile owners are finding Duco No. 7 a wonderful help in maintaining the original lustre of the body finish. Demonstration of this new Du Pont product will be gladly made for motor car owners at any time, he said.

LOW PRICE MADE ON CAR BATTERY

Psenner-Rothe, Inc., Offer Attractive Article At Reduced Figure

Herman Psenner, of the Psenner-Rothe, Inc., battery and electrical company, says that never in the history of the battery business could the public get a standard high grade battery at the low price for which they can now get them. Mr. Psenner says that his firm now sells genuine Philco batteries in hard rubber cases with rubber insulation, dry charged, for $14.75 exchange. Exchange means turning in old battery.

Mr. Psenner says that when a customer calls for a new battery, one is taken from the shelf dry, and is filled with acid and then is ready for use. By filling the battery after it is sold the customer is sure to get a new battery and not one that has been on the shelf with acid for some time, he says.

Mr. Psenner says that his firm does a motor-tuning job which is sure to save expense and inconvenience later. It consists of a general examination of the electrical system at a small expense, and quite often something is found wrong that, if the car continued to be used without repairing, it might do far more damage.

EDUCATOR IN ATTACK ON CHURCHES

David Starr Jordan Declares Evolution Prosecution Is New Throwback

The Tennessee prosecution for teaching the theory of evolution is a seventeenth century throwback in the opinion of Dr David Starr Jordan, president emeritus of Leland Stanford university and one of the formost educators in the United States. In a special article he sets forth his views as follows:

By DAVID STARR JORDAN
Written Exclusively for International News Service, Copyright 1925 by International News Service

PALO ALTO, June 8.—The Tennessee affair is an outbreak of ignorance in opposition to knowledge.

It is worthy of the seventeenth century, for the indictment of Professor Scopes, if not word for word, is exactly the same in spirit with the indictment of Galileo in 1663, for teaching that the earth revolves on its axis and moves around the sun.

The trial of some scientific men of today for teaching the fact of life-changes seems necessary to bring into clear light the discrepancy between truth as wise men have found it and the traditional ignorance which has usurped the name of Christianity and obscured its real significance. Of physical fact men know nothing until they find it out.

Ignores Fundamentals

The movement called fundamentalist ignores most that is fundamental in the teachings of Jesus. It does constant harm to religious organizations as it has driven out and will continue to do so, many sincere young men, devoted to religion, but repelled by the notion that human knowledge was all bound up in ancient traditions or venerable books. The Lord has left matters of fact in the make-up of the universe for us to find out. The movement will also do personal injury to many sincere teachers in infected regions.

Evolution in the scientific sense means orderly change. All nature is changing, all change is orderly, never accidental, never whimsical. In its operation we detect no variableness nor shadow of turning. Evolution is therefore the same as nature and to understand nature is the sacred duty of humanity.

Experts Must Rule

The question at issue is not the teaching of evolution. The reality is that the control of schools in detail belong to experts, not to the mob. But one cannot go far in any science without recognizing the fact of orderly change. All modern knowledge and thought is based upon it, or as obscurantists put it, all bathed in heresy.

The present movement will fade away again, as it did in the days of Darwin and Huxley, but Christianity, I believe, will survive it, though shedding most of its dogmas for the sake of the integrity of the human mind and of pure religion and undefiled.

H. G. Wells Willing to Have Appeared at Trial

LONDON, June 8—H. G. Wells, one of the world's most famous authors, as well as one of the most noted defenders of the theory of evolution, would have made personal appearance at the trial of Professor John T. Scopes of Tennessee, had he known Scopes would actually be prosecuted, his friends said today.

He believed, his friends said, that it was some sort of "stunt" or publicity trick. An invitation from prominent evolutionists in the United States would have started him on his journey to America, they asserted.

Wells is now in a province in the south of France writing a book.

Youth Bars Radio Favorite

DOROTHY D. WILSON, whose singing has won her a place in the hearts of all radio fans, has been disqualified in the singing contests of the National Federation of Music Clubs because she is too young.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Too young! Though she is the unanimous choice of Washington's music critics and a favorite of radio audiences, Miss Dorothy D. Wilson has been disqualified from representing the capital in the singing contest of the National Federation of Music clubs. She is under 20, which is the minimum age requirement.

Miss Wilson already has established a national reputation. When 16 she sang her first solo part in grand opera with the Washington Opera Co. Her first paid position as a church soloist came when she was only 17—the youngest in the national capital.

She has sung in concerts the last two years and was one of the chosen artists for Washington's first radio revue. She has since been heard regularly over the radio, and her rich, beautiful contralto voice has caused many fans throughout the country to write her.

In what was regarded as a direct attack on the policies of Senator Robert M. La Follette, Progressive leader, whose main strength lies in this section of the country, the secretary of state assailed those advocating "class tyranny" and the "overthrow of the government through attacks on the constution."

Coyote Serves Rabbit Stew To Baby Coyotes

RENO, Nev., June 8.—Boiled food for coyotes is the latest tale of the mining camps. George I. James, Nevada state game warden, swears that while on a hunting trip recently he saw a coyote loping over the hills to the edge of one of the boiling Steamboat Springs, near Carson City, with a freshly killed jackrabbit in its jaws. The coyote glanced about, cautiously tossed the rabbit into the natural boiling cauldron and left.

Twenty-five minutes later, says Warden James, the coyote returned with two frisking pups and with a rapid thrust of his muzzle flipped the rabbit to the surface and placed it before the pups.

FRENCH FRANC SPECULATION OPPOSED

Minister of Finance Warns Persons of Attempts To Make Profit

By FRANK E. MASON

Minister of Finance Joseph Caillaux met the situation with an official communique, couched in military terms, announcing a war against speculators. He warned them that these attempting to profit at the expense of the franc would suffer the same fate as a year ago, when the franc dropped from twenty-seven to the dollar to less than twenty.

Will Use Loan

The French financial genius denied reports that he intended inflation by means of large currency issues. He said he was willing to throw the entire $100,000,000 Morgan loan into the breach to stop the decline of the franc. Other funds would be called out as reserve forces, he said.

"In view of present circumstances I have decided if necessary to use the Morgan loan as a mass maneuver," his communique read. "I will throw in the entire loan if necessary, and even add other available important munitions at our disposal."

TRINITY KEYNOTE OF CHURCH YEAR

Rector Of St. Mark's Talks On Topic Celebrated In Religious Calendar

Rev. Philip K. Kemp, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, preached yesterday morning on the subject, "Application of the Doctrine of Trinity to Human Life." Rev. Kemp said:

"Today we celebrate in the calendar of the church year the day set aside for the remembrance of the central doctrine of the Christian theology which is that of the Trinity. It is for us who believe it a cry of triumph for the ways in which God has been pleased to reveal himself to mankind. To make it merely a dry theological formula which must be accepted that we may be classed among the so-called orthodox element of the Christian church is to mistake its meaning.

"We cannot place our thought about God either in a catalogue or in a mathematical formula. God defies both. We may not understand the metaphysics that rocked the church centuries ago, but we do know what God has meant to human life. The doctrine tells us not scientific principles but religious facts that are the bedrock of the Christian faith, the power of God to control human life.

Hebrew Psalms Proof

"It may seem odd, but one of the best commentaries on the doctrine is found in one of the old Hebrew psalms which is a glorification of the greatness of God. Pulsing through Hebrew history is this confidence in God. 'Great is the Lord and greatly to be praised and his greatness is unsearchable.' This greatness is conceived in terms of his goodness, his universal kingdom and in his kindness to all the sons of men. The goodness and faithfulness of God is the song of praise upon the lips of the prophets and psalmists of old and is the song that rises in a true Christian heart today with even greater meaning, for we are the happy recipients of the Christian revelation.

"What the Hebrew knew of the goodness of God we have also learned more fully in the life of Jesus Christ. We now know that our sins and shortcomings are not matters of indifference to God. The life and death of Jesus bear evidence of that. Christianity is more than a code of morals, because God has entered our life and showed how much he cared for us to be his children. The goodness of God is his infinite care for us. Who can worthily appreciate that without the glory of Christian life? This stands back of the doctrine of the Trinity.

Nationality Small Matter

"The same is true of the kingdom which God has been establishing in hearts of men and which Jesus gave his life to forward. Our true enthusiasm should be for this of which in any event our nationality is but a small segment. When men are as willing to lay down their lives for human brotherhood as they are for their own nation the rule of God will be more of a reality than it is today.

"What we call civilization today is but an extension of this faith in God which has been gradually finding expression in human life. This is the visible expression of our faith in the power of God as we co-operate with him in this great endeavor to make his will known on earth. This is the great faith of the church, as we sing in the hymn, 'All thy works shall praise thy name in earth and sky and sea.'"

REV. CALDERWOOD TELLS GOD'S GOOD

'Constant Revelation' Taken As Theme by Pastor In Sunday Sermon

"God's Constant Revelation" was the subject of the sermon delivered yesterday morning by Rev. C. M. Calderwood, pastor of First Congregational church. He said:

"Elijah did not discover God's revelation in the wind, earthquake or fire. But after it was all over God spoke to him in the still small voice. God does have a word for us in the spectacular, the wonderful, the extraordinary and the unusual. Some of us need these to jar us out of our complacency. The Philippian jailer. Paul, Martin Luther and countless others were born again suddenly and came to God in this way.

"If God thunders to us from Sinai, let us listen and if he calls us to mountains of transfiguration, let us go. We should not deny that God can do and does things in a most wonderful way and we should rejoice in the high lights of revelation. But this phase of God's revelation has received its full proportion of attention and, in fact, it has been so much emphasized that some people are led as Elijah was to see God only in the unusual and the occasional.

Uninformed People

"When we are able to find God only in the wonderful we strive to place as many events as possible under that category in order that the field of divinity may be enlarged. There are uninformed people who are fighting every approach of science as limiting God. How can the discovery of God's scientific truths limit him? Is God driven out of the heavens today because we now understand the nature of an eclipse and the distance, weight and composition of the stars? 'God's still in his heavens, all's well with the world.'

"Is the hand of God taken from the atoms and electrons since Prof. Milliken of Pasadena made important discoveries concerning their nature? Science is helping to disclose God in his universe. It gives us information concerning God's methods with the physical world.

Lessons Hinted

"If Jesus could find lessons from God in the flower, we should find additional lessons when we put a flower under a high-powered microscope. If David from his housetop could find God in the heavens we should discover more revelations looking through the great telescope on Mt. Wilson. The scientist has shown us that there is as much wonder in the electron or the tiny cell as there is in the starry heavens. Science is not attempting to drive God out of his universe but is laboring religiously to discover God in his universe.

"We should not deny God's appearance in interventions but we should affirm his revelation in the every-day, the common and the constant. The God who is in the occasional must surely be in the constant. If God can be in the extraordinary he can be in the ordinary.

"When we learn to see God in the constant we will not have to wait for the unusual for his revelation. God is not merely a transcendent being apart from the world, but God is immanent in his world and is manifesting himself every day. God is not simply a first great cause appearing only after long intervals. He is not a mere spectator of human events. He has not retired from the scene of activities. God is immanent in all life. Life came only from God and is always an evidence of him.

"God is speaking to us today through new voices. Let us hear him when he speaks. The new revelations of the wonders of the universe and of life are nothing less than new revelations of the wonder and glory of God. We are denying ourselves a great privilege if we are compelled to return to ancient history for all of the revelations of God."

CHURCH MISSION IS PASTOR'S TALK

Rev. Thomas of Grand View, In Sermon on Its Purpose And Real Ideals

"The Church as the Light of the World, an Instrument of Vision and in the Service of the Sun" was the sermon subject yesterday morning of Rev. George W. Thomas, pastor of Grand View Community church. He said: "Every human institution is being tested today as never before," "Life is full of new stress and strain. The world is in the early chill of a new morning, the birth pangs of a new era. We do not know surely what this new day and new era will be, but we are already sure that they will not be like today or yesterday; and certainly in many respects they ought not to be. Every human institution is going to have to prove itself, demonstrate its usefulness or it will not remain. If its place is with yesterday, with yesterday it will be left behind. It will have no place in tomorrow unless it demonstrates its own indispensability. Men are trying to get rid of what they don't need any longer and of what they don't think they need any longer. Millions are mistaken about what they think they don't need. Millions think they are not going to need the church tomorrow. Today they are using it, if at all, only at birth, marriage, and death, or perhaps only at death. Tomorrow, in their minds, the world will not need it at all.

Purpose of Church

"What they do not realize, what we in the church must demonstrate, is first, that the church is not a merely human institution. It has a divine, an immortal side, a life that lives in God, and it will live in every tomorrow, in every age and era. If this had not been true, the church would have perished ages ago. Its human mistakes alone would have killed it, and most of us have made mistakes enough in it ourselves to have killed it in our time, if Christ had not been in it, redeeming the human of our age as He has of every other, that at the last He might present unto Himself a glorious church, transformed and irradiated for ever and ever.

"And the second thing which we in the church must demonstrate is that this Divine human institution is here to meet the greatest need of every age, Light in which to work. Nothing ennobles character so much as doing good. Jesus Christ gave the church the most transforming and irradiating task of all. To the infant church that day of the Sermon on the Mount he said: "Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on the hill can not be hid. . . . Let your light shine. . . . "He made the church the great instrument of vision and set it in the service of the Sun, the Sun of Righteousness that must arise on every age with healing in his wings,

Heralds of Light

"To be heralds of light, instruments of vision, servants of the sun—that is the great, far reaching use of the church. What a privilege, what a responsibility, what a usefulness! A City that is set on a hill can not be hid, must not be hid! We are that city, set on a hill to light the world. The world must be lighted. The world is a far and weary traveller. How much the radiant lights of a great, radiant city mean to a traveller—if he can see them. But sometimes higher hills and far distance cut the lights off from view. There is a beautiful story of one great, friendly city that realized the tragedy of the darkened far valley and sent its people from hill-top to hill-top and valley to valley so that no traveller in all the land might lose his way.

"The Church is a great friendly city with the God of Light in it. From the mountain range to mountain range, even to the farthest peaks and valleys of this world, it must carry its colonies of the Sun, till every darkened heart shall find guidance, every chill morning its cheering ray, every new age its light to work in.

"The world will always need it. Today the world is calling out of unsolved problems for which there has never been lights enough before. Kindle thy radiance, Oh City of God! Thou art the light of the world.

"Today there are age-old aching needs and starvings of soul and of body. Waken to the service of thy Sun and bring the healing of His wings to far and farspent peoples. Oh Church that bears His Name! It is thy blessed task to distribute the goodness of God with the vision of Jesus; to go where He would go, put things where he would put them, do things as He would do them, live as He would live, give as He would give. Who of us that believes in God or man can stay out of a task like this?"

THOUSANDS SEE FIGHTS AT ASCOT

Ace Hudkins Loses Bout On Foul To O'Brien; Phil Salvadore Licked

Breaking all fight attendance records to date in the state of California, Dick Donald's huge Ascot park affair Saturday night netted the local promoter around $60,000, according to the latest figures available. As Donald knows, the public will pay a fair price for fair fights and this is the answer for the turnout of 35,000 people who tied up traffic long before and after the "big show."

Ace Hudkins received his just desserts wren the referee raised O'Brien's hand, as Ace had been warned several times about his low blows. Not counting the decision, O'Brien was giving Hudkins a good lacing and unless the "Nebraska Wildcat" would have "stepped on it," he was loser by a mile.

Mandell Winner

Phil Salvadore showed that his best bet is the four round game for after that length of time he was just the toy of that clever boxer, Sammy Mandell. Salvadore was game and took real punishment from the Illinois boy.

Within a few days announcement of the details of the big fight to be held on July 4 will be made by Dick Donald, when he brings together at the Ascot arena Sammy Mandell and Tommy O'Brien, the two winners of last Saturday's fisticuff.

XLI—Food Requirements

A friend of mine who has been reading this column, remarked that he had considered some of my food combinations but did not try any of them because he thought they were not enough in quantity. That remark has inspired me to write more in regards to the amount of food a man requires daily.

I can work at hard labor for weeks on a diet of two quarts of milk per day and hold my normal weight of 145 pounds, and do as much work as any man.

Two and not more than three slices of whole wheat bread and one eight-ounce glass of milk is also a day's ration for hard labor.

The muscles of our body will not wear out to the extent of more than two or three ounces in a day's work and it is foolish to use the digestive organs for the purpose of softening up, putrefying, fermenting and eliminating several pounds of garbage daily to receive two or three ounces of repair material. Even the weakest imagination should be able to understand the damaging effect this unnecessary mass has on the entire body.

I have seen people come into restaurants and, while I would be enjoying the taste of one glass of milk and one-half of a grapefruit, they would actually throw an oversized deadly combination into their stomachs that would cause a 400 pound gorilla to die of indigestion.

Very often these people were dressed like fashion plates, manicured nails, hair clipped absolutely correctly and face massaged, "by some nicotine fingered barber,"—in fact every thing that would indicate the highest order of external cleanliness. Somehow or other, after they disappeared out the door, visions of nickel-plated garbage cans would float past my eyes.

Tomorrow—Fasting Facts.

MAIL MEN LOSE

The Glendale Letter Carriers dropped a hard-hitting game to the San Pedro mailmen yesterday at the port city, the score being 15 to 5. Richards was on the mound for the local postal workers, with Whitley working behind the log.

Ace Hudkins Suspended by Boxing Body

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—Ace Hudkins, Nebraska lightweight boxer, was suspended for thirty days today by the State Boxing commission for fouling Tommy O'Brien of New York in their bout here Saturday night.

Seth Strelinger, chairman of the commission, declared that Hudkins' suspension, under the rules of the commission, automatically followed his fouling of the New Yorker and said the suspension was in line with the commission's policy and not intended as a direct criticism of Hudkins' fighting.

His suspension will cost Hudkins $8000, it was reported, the Nebraskan having been tentatively offered that purse for his services in a bout to be staged here July 4.

NEW YORK, June 8.—From a tennis friend in England comes a letter warning American women players not to get too greatly excited over Miss Joan Fry, the young English girl who recently sprang into fame by defeating the present English champion, Miss McKane.

Miss McKane has been seen in action in this country and more than one American star has suffered defeat by her racquet in France and England. This means that any young girl who beats the English woman in a tournament match is playing a high class brand of lawn tennis.

But while Miss McKane did not proffer any alibis, she seems to have been in a position to do so had she cared to violate sporting ethics.

For one thing, Miss McKane is also English champion in that peculiarly English game known as badminton. Now badminton is sort of battledore and shuttlecock and has a technique all its own. Rather a silly sort of game and yet not without merits.

Miss McKane had just finished her season at badminton, when she stepped onto the courts as finalist against Miss Fry. The element of personal risk in badminton is negligible as a rule, but in her play the English tennis expert seems somehow to have sustained a damaged ankle.

And so with a damaged ankle, which militated against celerity, endurance and all that sort of thing, and with her visual judgment askew because of indulgence in a game in which the ball is all feathered up like an Indian's war bonnet, she was defeated by Miss Fry.

Yet, when all is said and done, the performance of the English youngster was distinctly creditable and who knows before the season is over but that they may be cheering for some one who promises to be a rival for Miss Helen Wills and L'Englen?

Jeffries To Referee Bouts At Elks' Club

Six bouts are on the program for tonight at the Elks' club when the regular monthly Jinks party will be held. The members of the committee in charge of arrangements have secured Jim Jeffries, former heavyweight champion of the world, to appear as referee for all bouts tonight. Harry E. McCartney arranged the bouts.

SLATTERY IS NEXT

NEW YORK, June 8.—Reports in circulation today were to the effect that Gene Tunney's next bout will be with Jimmy Slattery, the Buffalo sensation, who scored a two-round knockout of Jack Burke at the milk fund show. Tunney placed himself in line for a shot at the heavyweight title by stopping Tom Gibbons in the twelfth round on Friday night.

NEW YORK, June 8.—Public opinion has just about reached what might be called an unanimity on the belief that the New York Yankees have made a big mistake in using Babe Ruth in the lineup before he has fully recovered his strength and health. Except for a brief flurry in the second game he played, Ruth has not been hitting the ball with any degree of abandon, but that is of slight importance. The important consideration is that Ruth has not collapsed in his tracks.

What with the extreme heat of the past week and his meager store of energy, Ruth hardly has been able to move above a good brisk walk, yet he has remained in right field daily to work out his own salvation. It became so bad several days ago when fly balls began to drop in his vicinity for base hits that the fans shouted: "Take him out; take him out." There was no resentment against Ruth in the demand.

The writer watched Ruth work out at the stadium when first permitted to leave the hospital for several hours at a stretch. He merely swung at pitched balls. Yet five minutes after this he called hurriedly for a chair and sank into it gratefully. He breathed heavily for minutes thereafter.

About a week later he was in the regular lineup. An unfortunate choice was made for the day of his reappearance. It was the first of the torrid spell, and even those sitting idle in the stands gasped for breath. Ruth, always a sincere worker, gave everything he had. He rushed into far right center, forcing his flagging legs to the limit, and made a remarkable diving catch off Joe Judge.

The next inning he was on first base when Meusel hit what should have been a home run inside of the grounds. He only got a triple because the Babe almost dropped dead between second and third. It would have been smart to stop him at third base and used a sub runner, but the Yanks weren't smart that day.

They sent him reeling onto the plate, where he essayed a head-first slide that was more like a collapse than anything else. This was the same man who was ripped open by a surgeon's knife a little more than a month before.

The writer seemed to incense Ed Barrow, sometimes mentioned as Huggins' successor, by asking if the club was trying to lose a great ball player.

"Miller Huggins is the manager," was all he vouchsafed.

BASEBALL

The mighty have fallen. The Shell Oilers, after setting a new record for consecutive wins on the coast that eclipsed the number piled up last summer by the Glendale White Sox, dropped a hard-fought contest yesterday to the Pasadena Merchants at Brookside park. On the mound for the Merchants was Elmer Reiger, known to many Glendale fans as the man who hurled the White Sox to numerous victories last year. Fairbanks hurled for the Oilers. The score was 4 to 2.

The Pacific Electrics trimmed the Southern California Telephone team, 3 to 1, at the local ball park Saturday afternoon. Yesterday the trolleymen did not fare as well, losing to the Chandslor-Canfield-Midway Oilers, 5 to 1.

In the Postal league yesterday the Long Beach carriers dropped a 6-to-1 game to the Los Angeles clerks, while the Los Angeles carriers were beating the Santa Monica mailmen, 8 to 3. The Los Angeles Owls, while not playing a Postal league game, won from the Pacific Fruit Express, 6 to 4.

Huffaker, with the assistance of other Lankershim players, defeated the San Pedro Athletic club team yesterday, 7 to 3.

San Fernando dropped a 2-to-1 game to the Japanese Diamonds yesterday. A homer in the first, followed by a single and a triple in the second, gave the Nippons a lead.

The Gilmore Oilers trounced the General Petroleum team yesterday, 6 to 2.

The Pasadena Paints beat the Arcadia Merchants, 2 to 0.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, June 8.—The Philadelphia Athletics have dropped more than 100 points in the percentage column since May 17, when they reached the season's high water mark of .800. But that does not necessarily mean that they are headed for the bottom of the league, or even for second place.

They have lately been playing the runners-up in the race, who naturally gave them the stiffest kind of opposition, and even the tail-enders have been showing greater strength when facing Connie Mack's tribe. One of the principal tasks of all tail-end teams seems to be to swat the leaders when they least expect, and thus restore the equilibrium of the pennant chase.

The Athletics have been running along in their league somewhat as the Giants have been going in theirs, and it will be observed that the Giants have been cramped a little by the force of recent events. They usually manage to recoup at Brooklyn's expense, but the other afternoon they actually lost to the Robins.

The decline of the Athletics was to be expected. It is asking too much to expect any team to continue at an .800 clip, and .800 had been plenty to win the flag, provided they can maintain that figure. But the American league fight is far from over. It is getting tighter and tighter. If the Yankees had not been so weak in the backbone, and if there had been not so many personal difficulties among the players, the four cornered battle royal which was expected would now be in full swing.

The Athletics probably will not again run away from the procession as far as they did in the middle of May. It takes more victories to make such a run-up, as the season progresses, and moreover, better and better baseball will be played by their opposition as the sun waxes hotter and hotter. There may be occasional lop-sided contests but there will be no more runaway baseball, with an opposition too weak to keep the leaders' head out of the clouds.

Fourth Week Of Play In Twilight Loop Up

The fourth week of play in the Twilight league will get under way this afternoon when the Christian church meets the Firemen. The Firemen have won three straight games, while the churchmen's only claim to fame is the defeat they handed the Radios last week, 7 to 3. The Firemen beat the Radios 7 to 5 at the start of the season.

Tomorrow the Postoffice crew will tackle the Huli Trucks, another league-leading team. Wednesday the Calla Lily and Glendale Creamery teams hook up, and Thursday the Radios and Public Service squads are billed.

BUSH BEATS YANKS

Joe Bush, former Yankee, pitched the St. Louis Browns to a victory over the New Yorkers by the score of 5 to 2. Bush was doubly satisfied as Shocker, for whom Joe was traded, figured in the game as a part-time pitching opponent. Babe Ruth's batting average is still convalescing. The Swat King appeared five times at bat and registered nary a hit.

SENATORS BEATEN

The Philadelphia Athletics today had gained an extra toe hold on first place although they did not play Sunday. Washington, runner-up in the American league race, lost to Chicago, 4 to 2.

BROOKLYN WINS

Brooklyn made it three straights over the Chicago Cubs by coming from behind in the eighth inning and making five runs. Score 10 to 9.

RALLY IN EIGHTH

An eighth inning rally helped the Giants to a victory over St. Louis, 6 to 2.

Thompson Is Expected to Win City Tilt

Harold Thompson, youthful golfer of Glendale, and a member of the Oakmont Country club, will enter the second round eliminations this week in the city title play at the Warren G. Harding memorial course in Griffith park. Thompson defeated R. G. Stough, 2 and 1, and will meet John Mescal, who turned in a 3-and-2 win over O. J. Clisby. Thompson is picked to win in the championship flight, but will face a hard field, Earl Neitzel, Hollywood, and Alan Moser, Wilshire, will be some of Thompson's most difficult opponents.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP by FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, June 8.—The more one visits these high life training camps of prize fighters the more one realizes what pleasant days the fighting fraternity has fallen on.

This remark is inspired by a visit to the place where Charley Weinert is doing his work of preparation for Harry Wills and the spot where Mickey Walker is grooming for Harry Greb.

Weinert's camp is high up on the top of the Orange Mountains in North Jersey, a place called Pleasantdale, where he has an outdoor ring with a tent over the top to protect him from the sun's rays.

Any time a sparring partner pauses in a work out to gaze in any direction from the ring it must be difficult for him not to believe that he has been knocked clean off this earth and is living in a beautiful region where good fighters go when they don't come to after knockouts. For hill and vale, orchard and meadow stretch away on all sides, capped by the cerulean (that means blue, brothers) dome of the sky.

Weinert and his retinue of sparring partners, trainers and handlers generally live in a summer hotel which has been taken over by the fighter and a specially hired chef serves up victuals that makes the diners feel in anything but a fighting mood.

The Adonis has been training five weeks now and is now entering upon a fortnight of intensive work which will put him on edge for the Brown Panther. He is very confident that he will outpoint Wills; not only that, he says he fully expects to give the big negro such a pounding that he will be glad when the fifteen rounds are at an end, provided he lasts that long.

Still, anyone can feel confident when a fight against a formidable foeman is two weeks off. It is the way Charley feels when he steps into the ring that will count.

Collins farm, where Mickey Walker is tuning up for Harry Greb is also a mountain retreat. This place was built by some wealthy man as an estate and the string of fighters who have been here in the past few years don't appear to have damaged the beauty of the spot at all. Of course a pair of cauliflower ears appearing over a well-trimmed hedge, or a flat nose behind a rustic gate cannot be said to help the appearance of the environment to any extent, but Collins farm is one of those places that can't be marred by little things like that.

Walker thinks the mountain air is much more beneficial than the salt breezes of his former training camp and thinks he will have greater speed on June 19 than he has ever shown. Just now he is not working very hard in the ring, but as soon as the hot weather lapses he will begin to step on the gas.

Author Tells How To Live For 100 Years

BOSTON, June 8.—Refuse to worry and keep your conscience clear.

Refuse to eat white bread, using whole wheat bread instead.

Refuse to sleep indoors.

Follow this program and you will live to be 100 years old. This is the belief of Edwin Markham, author of "The Man With the Hoe," who was in Boston on a literary mission.

Markham believes in change, in progress, in evolution and growth.

"Life is change," Markham declared. "Things that stand still usually rot. Be prepared for change.

"Every boy and girl on this planet should be trained for parenthood. It is our greatest responsibility. The reason it is being agitated as a course in the public school curriculum is because so far there has never been any training in parenthood."

WINE GRAPES COSTLY

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—Growers expect strong prices for California's big wine grape crop. The first contract for September delivery reported was on the basis of $65 per ton for Zinfandels, $75 for Carrigans and $85 for Alicantes.

Report Leonard Will Meet Mickey Walker

NEW YORK, June 8.—It was stated on reliable authority that Benny Leonard planned to emerge from his retirement in September for a welterweight championship bout with Mickey Walker. Leonard has held several conferences with Tex Rickard, according to reports, and it is said that terms were discussed for a meeting with Walker at the Yankee stadium.

When informed of the report today, Jack Kearns, manager of Walker, said that Mickey would be only too glad to take on the former lightweight champion, but would expect $250,000 for his end. It was reported that Rickard had offered Leonard $200,000.

LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, June 8.—Members of the home economics section of the La Crescenta Women's club will not only furnish food for the sale to be held after the meeting on Wednesday, but sell the recipe for the dish. Mrs. Zelpha Merrit, curator of the section, has supplied each member with the style of card used in the kitchen file cabinet for recipes.

As this meeting is the open program of the month, visitors will be welcomed. Mrs. Charles Turck, president, has planned a most pleasing number in the appearance of Maggie Mallory of stage fame, who mill give an interesting talk. Mrs. Turck has also made arrangements with various firms who will have on hand samples of club chairs, hangings, etc., for the members to decide on. Each member will be allowed to purchase her own chair of the sort selected by the majority.

Final plans for the big old-fashioned barn dance to be held Saturday evening at the Gould barn of La Canada also will be discussed.

Mrs. F. S. Card of Altura avenue was hostess on Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Burnower of Los Angeles and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McMahon and children, formerly of Youngstown, Ohio, who are at present residing in Los Angeles.

Mark S. Collins reports the sale of the last of his row of stone houses on the north side of Montrose avenue to Miss Malloy, who at present is residing in San Diego, where she is stationed at the government hospital. Miss Malloy served in the Red Cross during the late war. She will occupy her La Crescenta home as soon as her service term is expired.

Mrs. Clara Weber of Los Angeles avenue has as her house guest Mrs. J. S. Martin of Philadelphia.

Highway Highlands is soon to have a swimming pool for the adults and a wading pool for the kiddies. Work was begun on the larger pool on Saturday, the men of the tract doing the labor, Mark S. Collins supplying the cement and other materials. This pool will be eighteen by forty feet, with a graded bottom measuring nine feet at the deepest end, while the smaller pool is to be twelve by eighteen feet and will be two and a half feet at its deepest point. The Tuesday Afternoon club will see to the planting of trees around the pools for shade and to beautify the surroundings.

Members of the Verdugo Hills post legion auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. A. E. Baron on Altura avenue for an all-day session with Mrs. C. W. Cunningham, chairman, in charge. Work on the various fancywork articles to be prepared for the coming bazaar was started. At noon Mrs. Baron served luncheon, a social hour following. At 2:30 the regular business session was resumed, Mrs. Betty Holloway assuming the gavel. The women will assist the American Legion at their dance to be given at the Sparr Heights Community house on the night of June 20. Mrs. A. T. Blandford will be hostess at the next meeting, to be held June 18, opening at 10:30 o'clock.

A rattlesnake with six rattles was killed in the brush near the corner of New York and Anderson avesnues by A. F. Hopkins and A. C. Chapin, who were tatracted to the reptile's hiding-place by the sound of its rattles. The men stoned the snake to death, having no other weapons. This is the first known of any rattlers in the valley since it has become so thickly settled.

Tonight the La Crescenta Chamber of Commerce will adjourn early to attend the meeting of the stockholders of the Crescenta Mutual Water Co. with the county officials, who will be present to talk on forming a county water district. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock promptly and will be held in the Verdugo City auditorium.

The Tuesday Afternoon club of Highway Highlands will meet on Tuesday in the clubrooms with Mrs. C. Lukes and Mrs. R. Q. MacDonald as hostesses for the afternoon. Plans will be further discussed for the giant Fourth of July celebration.

COURTESY IS EMPHASIZED BY CLUB

Southern California Society Urges Motorists Care On Open Road

With the arrival of the peak of the year for motoring, courteous driving is being emphasized by the safety department of the Automobile club of Southern California. It is pointed out that not only the city streets, but practically every highway in the state will be congested during the next few months, as not only will resident motorists be taking advantage of the good weather and fine roads, but tens of thousands of visitors from all parts of the country will be touring in all directions.

There is a peculiar psychology in the average motorist, according to students of men and things. The moment a driver feels power within his grasp in the form of a steering wheel and gas throttle, there is a desire to exercise it without regard to others. The records show that the average motorist will do things on the highways that if attempted in their own homes, would brand them as morons, or just plain crazy.

Little Annoyances

It is the little annoyances that take the charm out of motoring. A very small percentage have collisions, break-downs, or serious accidents, but all suffer from discourtesy on the road. The person who would be horror-stricken at the thought of throwing a glass of muddy water on anyone in his own home will blithely dash into a pool of liquid mud along the highway and gleefully spatter it over every car within twenty-five feet. The mud splasher is a frequent and irritating disturber of not only the motorist's peace but the pedestrian's.

Then there is the noise-loving motorist. If someone's shoes squeak, or a door is slammed around his own home, he throws a nervous fit. But put him behind a wheel of a car in the street and he will create a bedlam with the auto horn, day or night makes no difference. He may not use the horn for a warning signal as intended, but he does use it to summon someone to the front door, to express his contempt of passing motorists, to frighten dogs or cats, and in various other ways having nothing to do with the proper handling of his car.

Road Hog's Place

High place in the halls of disgust is held by the road hog who is nearly always a willful offender and glories in being an obstructionist. He drives into the sidewalk lines to stop at boulevard stops so that pedestrian traffic may not pass. He dashes in and out of traffic regardless of others and taking chances with his own, as well as other's lives. When driving slow he will take the center of the road instead of the right side, as dictated by the state law. He does other things that would brand him as a boor in any decent society and he knows it. But alone in his car on the road he throws convention and decency to the winds.

It is urged by the Automobile club of Southern California that special effort be made this summer to observe courtesy rules in driving as there is every indication that there will be more motor vehicles in use from now until November than at any period in Southern California history.

Officer In Duel Kills Bandit He Was After

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—Sergeant F. S. Harper, Los Angeles police officer, shot and killed Eddie Miller, bandit, in a gun duel here today. Harper received a slight shoulder wound. The dead bandit engaged in six holdups Saturday night, according to police.

Miller was shot four times by the officer after Harper, known as an expert marksman, had been wounded. The bandit fired first at the officer when Harper ordered him to halt while Miller was entering an automobile. Miller fired six times at the policeman as he went down, but only one of the bullets struck Harper.

Harper, police records show, was attacked by an intoxicated negro September 28, 1924, and shot him to death to save his life.

Fred Bursaw, aged 72, one of the brothers, lives here. Another, Alec, aged 75, he has not met in forty-nine years, and the other brother, Joseph, he has not seen in fifty-one years. The family was brought up in Danville, Quebec. Alec has been living in Chicago and Joseph in Malone, N. Y.

Singer Honored by All Rome

MADELINE KELTIE of Boston, trained in the United States, is the newest operatic sensation in Italy. She made her debut as "Tosca" at the Costanzi opera house in Rome.

ROME, June 8.—An American girl, trained in the United States, is the newest operatic sensation in Italy. She is Madeline Keltie of Boston.

She was acclaimed when she made her debut as "Tosca" at the Costanzi opera house in Rome. In the distinguished audience which heard her on this occasion were the three princess daughters of the king and queen, members of the cabinet and diplomatic corps, and society leaders.

Miss Keltie is now much in demand, and her repertoire is being rapidly extended. Contracts have been offered her by other European operas, but she may reject all of them in favor of a bid to appear in the United States.

The singer recently appeared in the news in connection with an incident at Monte Carlo, where she was staying at the time with her mother. She complained that she was being annoyed by the attentions of a rich Britisher, one Arthur St. John, and Clifford Harmon, an American, attacked St. John, who later denied that he was forcing his attentions upon Miss Keltie. He received severe injuries in the fight with Harmon and was confined to bed for some days.

Coolidge Pays Tribute To Norsemen In Talk

might somewhat be held to guide mankind toward such a goal."

True attainment of this goal of world harmony and peace, Mr. Coolidge observed, lies along a path emanating from the "family altar"; from there, he said, springs those truly American institutions of religious liberty, of educational and economic opportunity, of constitutional rights, of the integrity of the law—"the most precious possessions of the human race."

Traces History

"These do not emanate from the government. Their abiding-place is with the people. They come from the consecration of the father, the love of the mother and the division of the children. They are the product of that honest, earnest and tireless effort that goes into the rearing of the family altar and the making of the home."

As befitted the occasion, the president devoted himself largely to the exploits of the sons of Thor and Odin. He traced their conquest of the American continent from the time Lief, the son of Erik, 500 years before Columbus landed on American soil, through the first organized expedition of 1825 and the settlement of the northwest, into the present era of success and prosperity.

'Children of Freedom'

"These Norsemen, one of whose anniversaries we are celebrating today," he said, "have from their first appearance on the margin of history been the children of freedom.

"Their glory is all about you, their living and their mighty dead. They have given great soldiers, statesmen, scientists, educators and men of business to the upbuilding of their adopted country. The nation owes to them much of its success in the enormous process of assimilation and spiritual unification that has made our nation what it is and our people what they are."

Seek to Lower Bail In Actress Kidnaping Case

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—Motion to reduce the bail of C. Z. Stevens, held in connection with an alleged plot to kidnap Mary Pickford, was taken under advisement today until tomorrow, when Stevens and his companions in the purported scheme, Adrian Woods and Claude A. Holcomb, will appear in court for arraignment.

Suburban Age Takes Command In America

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 8.—America is entering the suburban age, according to Congressman Martin L. Davey, of Ohio, in an address here.

"The United States is evolving a type of city the world has never known before, with a manner of living in its suburban areas never before possible," he stated. "With quick transportation into the cities, suburbs are developing to remarkable size. A dozen large American cities have more people in their suburbs than within their boundaries. The new type of municipalities will be a double city formed of home area and business district."

Alleged Rum Runner Is Held For Murder Trial

CHICAGO, June 8.—Charged with the killing of Harry Hassmiller and the probable fatal shooting of Walter O'Donnell, in a suburban roadhouse, Tony (Red) Mallon was arrested today. Authorities declare he is a beer runner and himself in the "transfer business." Sixteen other men are being detained for questioning.

Mallon, police say, admitted he was in the roadhouse at the time but denied he had taken part in the affray. The bartender in the roadhouse, police say, identified Mallon as the man who did the shooting.

Drastic Traffic Laws Passed Against Yeggs

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 8.—Because of the great numbers of crimes committed in Pennsylvania under the guise of the law, this state has just written on its books a statute designed to make motoring, particularly at night, less hazardous.

In the future, unless a person waving down a motorist on a highway is dressed in uniform, with his badge showing, the driver can speed past him for his own safety. The new law, apparently, also permits crashing into a non-uniformed person attempting to stop an automobile.

CRIMINAL CASES

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—The average time spent in the trial of criminal cases in superior courts in Los Angeles has been reduced from 110.8 days to 60.8 days. This is a result, according to officias, of the work of theh Los Angeles Crime commission.

Foreign Settlement At Canton Under Shellfire

CANTON, China, June 8.—Canton continued in the throes of civil war today following the outbreak of hostilities between the Kuomingtang, or people's party, and the former Yunnanese mercenaries of the late Sun Yat Sen's Canton army. The Yunnanese control most of the city with Kuomingtang forces entrenched in the open countryside, across the Canton river. Late Saturday several Kuomingtang gunboats steamed up the river past the Shameen, or foreign settlement, dropping shells into the Chinese section of Canton. So far no casualties in the Shameen have been reported.

Russian Officers Are Training Chinese Army

PEKING, June 8.—Thirty red Russian officers are reported to be training the North China army of Marshal Feng Yu Hsiang in the use of arms and ammunition said to have been purchased in Russia, according to an American traveler reaching here today from Kalgan, important North China city, 150 miles north of Peking. These preparations, according to foreign military observers, are undoubtedly in line with the expected clash between North China and Manchuria, with Russia backing Marshal Feng Yu Hsiang, the North China leader, and Japan supporting Marshal Chang Tso Lin, war lord of Manchuria.

Legation Secretaries Form Peace Delegation

MANILA, June 8.—Chinese advices here today say that a special peace delegation composed of legation secretaries has left Peking this morning for Shanghai in an effort to end the anti-foreign strike now raging in the latter city. The same advices report the arrival at Chinkiang, British treaty port on the Yangtse, 100 miles above Shanghai, of the British gunboat Woodlark to quell the anti-foreign disturbances in that port.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service

NEW YORK, June 8.—The industrial, railroad and specialty stocks failed to follow the lead of the oil stocks today and the rally which started the first session of the week did not carry the general level of prices forward as in former upward movements of an important group of stocks. The oil stocks are credited with having made so many false starts in the last two years that a large number of traders have wiped them permanently off the slate. This accounts for the failure of the oils to continue their rally today and to reach only fractional advances from their Saturday's closing prices.

There were no movements of importance in the rail shares, the coppers or any other of the major groups. The irregularity of the market was emphasized by the fresh declines in the high-priced industrial leaders, including American Can, Baldwin, General Electric and Pullman, on a limited volume of trading. Maxwell "B" certificates made a further decline to 111½, a loss of about 25 points from the recent high.

The 8-point recovery in the French franc was an important factor in the foreign situation. French cables made it plain that the prime minister would make use of the Morgan credit to sustain the franc in the exchange markets if the necessity arises. Belgian and Italian exchange also scored a rally, while foreign exchange was practically unchanged.

Sales in the first three hours aggregated only 750,000 shares, nearly half of which took place in the first hour. The contraction in the number of separate stocks dealt in was more marked than the decline in the column of business after that period.

Maxwell Motors and other spectacular stocks of recent moves practically disappeared from the lists.

The move in public utility stocks both on the stock exchange and the curb market, appears to have evaporated, for the present at least.

Professional traders were not inclined to repeat their bearish tactics against the industrial stocks, even in the absence of any great amount of buying demand. Stocks of the rubber and tire companies featured the early trading, with Fisk and United States Rubber leading the procession. Brooklyn Manhattan Transit and Interborough received some attention later in the session and sold slightly higher.

Stock sales today, 1,367,400 shares; bonds, $12,151,000.

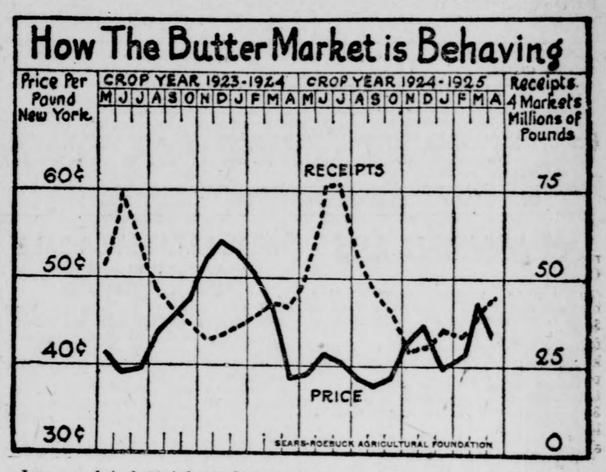
REPORT ON LEASE

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—A total of 114,996 barrels of crude oil, 339,851,000 cubic feet of natural gas and 131,119,91 gallons of gasoline were produced during April on the Elk Hills naval reserve, covered by the recently cancelled leases to the E. L. Doheny interests, according to a report of receivers filed here today.

Diamond-cutting in Antwerp is becoming greater than at Amsterdam and most of the output comes to this country.

Good Year for Butter Is in Sight



Improved industrial conditions point to a greater consumption of butter this year and favorable spring weather has put pastures in good condition which probably will mean a sizable production, according to the new Index of the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. Butter prices have held up remarkably well during the spring, as production has been lighter than last year, the large surplus in storage has been worked off, consumptive demand is excellent and competition from foreign butter has been negligible. A year ago the market was at the bottom of a big break, caused by expectations of excessive production and fear of severe foreign competition. During the year lighter feed prices and lower prices for products seem to have eliminated any tendency to overdo the industry.

LEAGUE PLANS SERVICE FOR AVIATORS

New Organization Members To Adopt Constitution Next Saturday

An attempt will be made to make the Western Aero league, now in the process of formation, with headquarters in Glendale, a service organization for aviators that will function in a manner similar to the Auto Club of Southern California in the automobile field, it was announced today. Elliott H. Barrett, attorney, and chairman of the by-laws committee of the league, reported that such plans have been included in the tentative constitution of the association.

The Western Aero league, with Dr. T. C. Young as president, will be incorporated with the stipulation that it is an organization which may own, operate and direct flying fields, aviation service stations and landing fields with full aeronautical equipment.

Meet Saturday

The constitution will be gone over by Dr. Young and Secretary Howard I. Wood in conference with Attorney Barrett tomorrow morning. The document will come up for ratification at the meeting of the league Saturday at Ross field, Arcadia. At that time J. T. Edwards, Glendale map-maker, will explain his basic plan for uniform air mapping, a feature of aviation to be sponsored by the league in order to insure to a greater degree the safet of commercial flyers.

A large aeronautics committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, headed by Dr. Young and including Secretary Wood, Lieut. C. P. Kane, Ross field, Garry W. Carr of the "Ace" Magazine, W. B. Kinner and M. R. Harrison, balloon expert, met today with Thomas B. Slate, dirigible inventor, to go over plans for his new 400-passenger ship, which it is planned to build in Glendale. A report will be made to the chamber directors on the new airship.

Seek 'Peeping Tom' As Police Get Complaints

Police are searching for a "peeping Tom" who has narrowly escaped capture several times recently but who persists in his efforts to peer under the bottom of drawn window shades.

Mrs. A. O. Rowe, 537 Palm drive, reported the prowler at her bedroom window late Saturday night. Sergeant Mercer, who investigated, found distinct foot prints beneath the window. They are believed to be the foot marks of the same "peeping Tom" who has on several other occasions been frightened away from that window.

Police have the size of the shoes the prowler wears. Today they were looking at the feet of suspected persons.

Leighton Family Will Move Into New Home

The Albert Leighton family of 123 West Elk avenue are anticipating the completion this week of their summer home on Rustic road, Santa Monica canyon. Rocks for the fireplace were selected from Tujunga canyon, the seashore and other places. They are rare in color and form and have been fashioned into a whole which is said to suggest to the imagination the colorings of the Grand canyon.

BUSINESS LOSSES EXCEED BILLIONS

Failures During Last Five Years Computed by U. S. Commerce Bureau

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH

For International News Service

WASHINGTON, June 8.—America's losses from business failures in the last five years amount to over $2,500,000,000, according to Ray M. Hudson, head of the simplified practice division of the Department of Commerce.

"The losses involved in these failures have to be absorbed somewhere," Hudson said. "The ultimate consumer is generally the victim."

Business failures were described as one of the large individual items in the estimated $30,000,000,000 annual waste in commerce and industry that helps keep living costs in the United States higher than any other nation.

Living Conditions

While living conditions in America are vastly better than in the rest of the world, department of commerce officials point out the vast improvement which could be brought about should only a small per cent of the waste motion be eliminated.

Annual production is about $60,000,000,000 annually. Half of the production value is waste, and a part of this waste preventable, according to Secretary Hoover's assistants.

"Some of the reasons for the great business failure loss may be found in wastes which arise from booms and slumps, intermittent and seasonal production, strictures in transportation, wastes caused by excessive variation of products, lack of efficient processes, wastes by fire and wastes of human life," Hudson declared.

Saving Method

Americans, according to Hudson, like to consider that "we have one-half of the world's entire supply of gold, two-fifths of all the world's railroad mileage, 83 per cent of the world's automobiles, and 63 per cent of the telephones.

"It is a matter of pleasure for us to consider that our savings bank deposits are double those of all Europe—yet with but a little more than a third the number of depositors; that more than 11,000,000 families own their own homes and that we are blessed in many other days. But our annual record of failures casts a shadow over this."

He advocated a general simplification in the sizes, types and shapes of virtually all commodities of commerce, estimating that in this way alone more than $10,000,000,000 could be saved annually by business.

OHIOAN BOASTS OF ABE'S FRIENDSHIP

Chillicothe Resident Recalls Sitting on Emancipator's Knee In Capital

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio, June 8.—Sitting on the knee of "the Great Emancipator" — Abraham Lincoln—is one incident in the life of Howard E. Harmon, a local resident, which he treasures as sacred.

But relatively few persons can recall ever having seen Lincoln. Only one Chillicothean can boast of having sat upon the great man's knee. It was during a visit to Washington in 1863, when his father, his brother and himself were guests of the president at the White House.

Othias Harmon, father of Rolland and Howard E. Harmon, and a personal friend of Lincoln accepted an invitation to visit the capital. The elder Harmon's acquaintance with Lincoln began when the two men were workers on barges plying the Mississippi river. Lincoln later, took up law, while Harmon returned here and began tanning leather.

Lincoln and Harmon continued their friendship, corresponding frequently. When the elder Harmon and his sons visited the White House the president greeted them cordially and "made them at home," said Howard. The youngsters were entertained by Lincoln, who held each of them in turn on his knee and told them some of his famous stories.

THE WORLD SHALL BE ESTABLISHED

millions now living will never die

Shifting of governments has been the history of the world; and much suffering has resulted from the thoughtless unconcern of Powers—jealous, crafty, plotting for control of the world.

Professions of peace are now rampant, plans are afloat promising stability. Yet there comes to light a ceaseless, untiring working to create weapons of destruction—aircraft, poison gas, cruisers, bombs, liquid fire.

Designs against neighbor nations, which are really plans of annihilation, lack the promise of stability. Yet the prophecies revealing present tendencies show that peace, permanent peace, will follow the confusion, distress and reeling perplexity of our world.
